BRITISH CROWN GEORGE TOMORROW

FAIR Enough

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK. — These dispatches have no desire to cause international complications and therefore will ignore the interesting conduct of Benito Mussolini's invincible legions in the Spanish war. The British journalists have been less discreet for they gave stirring descriptions of the invincible legions in their dashing advance to the rear pursued by the communist rabble, and followed that incident with word-pictures of the Duce's heroes in flight before a platoon of Spanish ladies.

It appears that the conquering hosts of the new Italian empire took one look at the Spanish ladies, threw away their rifles, purchased with gold from their mothers' wedding rings—and jumped into the sea to escape death or perhaps a fate which is said to be even worse.

They did not wait to ascertain the ladies' intentions. In retaliation for this publicity and for frequent mention of the words Caporetto and Adowa in the British press, the Duce has withdrawn all the Italian journalists from England, a sad blow to the British race. The words Caporetto and Adowa strike an unpleasant note in the Duce's soul. They are not fighting words, exactly. In (See PEGLER, Page 3)

TENSION GROWS IN FILM STRIKE

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—Police authorities rounded more than 250 extra officers around the gates of the Hollywood movie studios today as tension grew in the 11-day strike of the Federated Motion Picture Crafts.

From central headquarters in Los Angeles, Police Chief James Davis dispatched 200 men to studios in Hollywood proper. Extra guards also were assigned by Chief Cecil Truschel of Culver City to duty at three outlying studios.

An interlocking patrol system which would enable any radio car to reach a given point within a few minutes also has been installed Chief Davis said.

These steps were taken following four disturbances in the wide-lane strike area yesterday. Trucks were overturned, one studio workman was beaten, and another was attacked.

When a person does the same work day after day without a change for a long time, he gets stale on the job. There's no kick in it anymore because he gets so he does his work without thinking about it. The same thing applies to scenery. When you stay in one place too long, you get so you can look at the scenery without even seeing it.

That's the reason when a country boy goes to New York City, he sees more things happen the first day than a New Yorker sees in a year. Some scientists claim that country boys catch on to things quicker because they have their eyes open and they absorb every little detail.

The first time I drove an automobile back in the hills, my Cousin Dillard asked me to show him how to run the thing, so I got him in the car and we started down the road and my Cousin Dillard says, "Well, I saw how you started the thing, but how do you stop it?" So I says, "Well, I'll show ya."

So I stepped on the brakes and the road happened to be slippery and the car skidded and crashed into a rock wall at the side of the road. We untangled ourselves from the wreckage and my Cousin Dillard says, "Well, you sure stopped her all right, but how in the world do you stop the thing when they ain't no rock wall handy?"

JUICE PLANT BUYS LARGE FACTORY

$50,000 Expansion Is Planned By Citrus
Products Firm

A complete daylight factory, with quantities of glass in roof and sides, will be in operation by the first of next year at the old gum plant in southwest Santa Ana, producing citrus extracts, concentrates and juices.

The Citrus Juice and Flavor company, now operating a plant on 101 highway, today announced it had closed a deal with the Redlands Building and Loan company for the unfinished gum plant and five acres of land, which it will complete and equip at a cost of approximately $50,000.

The new plant will double the company's capacity and staff.

"We expect to have the finest plant in this part of the country," said H. R. McBride, president of the company. "We will begin work on the building in July or August, and hope to have it completed so we can move in by the first of next year."

The deal was arranged by H. M. Seest, Santa Ana real estate dealer.

INTERIOR FUND BILL SLASHED

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The house appropriations committee today approved a $115,871,265 appropriation today for the interior department during 1938.

The committee's $5,773,997 cut under the department's appropriation for the current year, represented the biggest reduction below current funds in any measure on which the committee has acted this session.

Former Prosecutor Defendant Today

A battery of lawyers crowded the front half of Justice Kenneth Morrison's courtroom today, as T. R. Gillenwaters, former Klamath Falls, Ore., district attorney, and Robert Owen Ivan Jones faced preliminary hearing on conspiracy charges.

Monts W. Shirley was defending Jones, accused of conspiring with Gillenwaters to defraud the LaVida Mineral Springs company when Jones accepted Gillenwaters' check for $1000 in part payment for water furnished Gillenwaters as LaVida distributor. I. H. Harris and J. H. Morris were defending Gillenwaters, and Deputy District Attorneys Harold McCabe and J. E. Walker were prosecuting.

Woman in Gable Child Case In Bastile Here

Chunky, gray-haired Mrs. Violet Wells Norton, 47-year-old Englishwoman who claims Screen Actor Clark Gable is the father of her 13-year-old daughter, had taken up her residence in Santa Ana today.

She was settling herself in the women's quarters of the county jail, beginning a one-year sentence for mail fraud imposed yesterday in a Los Angeles federal court. She gave her address at 2515 Ivanhill terrace, Los Angeles.

Federal authorities said they intended to deport Mrs. Norton after she serves her term.

S. F. 'PAYOFFS' ARE DENIED

MCDONOUGH QUIZZED BY
Grand Jurors About
Police Corruption

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Peter P. McDonough, testifying before the grand jury in an after-midnight session today, denied categorically that his bail bond concern was the "fountain head of corruption" in San Francisco.

He had appeared as a grand jury witness earlier, but was excused for three hours while the inquisitorial body questioned James Boland, 63-year-old police captain, whom Grand Investigator Edwin N. Atherton accused as McDonough's "tipoff" and contact man in the police department.

The grand jury session brought the disclosure that telephone lines in McDonough's ball bond house had been tapped for the last nine months.

Atherton, through secret stenographic aides, took down 28 pages of conversations he asserted were obtained over the telephone.

These conversations, records of which Atherton turned over to the grand jury, were said by the investigating officer to indicate the bail bond headquarters of McDonough were a focal point in an alleged system that has resulted in payments of $1,000,000 a year graft by gamblers and prostitution house operators.

Captain Boland, after emerging from the grand jury room, denied that he had ever served as McDonough's raid "tipoff" source at the hall of justice.

Start of a drive to obtain a $90,000 recreation hall for the beach front at Huntington Beach were made last night at a meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce there, with President M. M. McCallen appointing a committee to urge immediate construction of the hall.

Bill Ebert, Boxie Huston, W. J. Bristol and Vic Terry are to work with McCallen to discover why a hall has not been built, since voters approved a plan last year to lay aside funds for a $40,000 building on the city's ocean frontage. This group will urge enlarging of the present plan, it was decided.

Bilbao Bombed 11 Times in 5 Hours

BILBAO. (AP)—Eleven insurgent air raids within less than five hours blasted the outskirts of Bilbao today.

The first armada of German-made bombers appeared over the city at 6:30 a. m. By 11 a. m. successive fleets bombing the fringes of the city had kept the refugee-swelled population of more than 300,000 in a steady scurry for shelter.

PROJECT IS STUDIED BY COUNTY

Would Be Part of Big District Program in
This Area

A $450,000 trial balloon was sent aloft in Santa Ana today.

Attached to the trial balloon was a proposal that if the county votes a $3,500,000 flood control bond election, Santa Ana's share in benefits of the $15,000,000 water program should be considered.

This share of the bond election has been set tentatively at $450,000. The Journal learned from Supervisor Steele Finley. The proposal that Santa Ana receive the direct benefits comes from the county and not from the city, it was declared.

The proposed program for this city would embrace a comprehensive drainage and flood control project, designed to shoot runoff storm waters down toward the head of Newport bay, instead of south and southwest to flood farm lands as it now does in heavy rainfalls.

However, if the bond election is called for $2,500,000 and not for $3,500,000, there will be no money for the tentative program for Santa Ana out of the bond issue. The $2,500,000 would be needed for purchase of rights-of-way, damage payments, etc. on the eight flood control works to be constructed by army engineers.

Mass Meetings
Supervisor Finley today announced completion of plans to stage three mass meetings in this city to discuss the flood control program. The meetings will be held at 7:30 p. m. this Thursday and next Tuesday and Thursday nights in the city hall council chamber.

The meeting this Thursday is primarily for Townsend club members. The one next Tuesday will be primarily for WPA, SRA clients and workers in general. The meeting next Thursday will be for business men, chamber of commerce, service clubs and similar groups.

Flood Control Engineer M. N. Thompson will be presented by Supervisor Finley to discuss the flood control program. Supervisor Finley also said City Engineer J. L. McBride of Santa Ana also will attend the meetings.

H. B. PLANNING PENSION CHIEF SEES VICTORY

BOISE, Idaho. (AP)—Prediction the fundamentals of his pension plan will be enacted into law within the next two years was made today by Dr. Francis E. Townsend upon his arrival here to keep a speaking engagement.

The Townsend pension plan founder, said "if we cannot get our plan through the present congress we will get it through the next one."

Here in the home town of United States Senator William E. Borah, Townsend said the Idaho senator "has not come up to my hopes as to his leadership in the economic contest."

Army Air Games Get Under Way

MARCH FIELD. (AP)—Eighteen "enemy" planes swooped down on March Field in a surprise attack shortly before day-light today in the army air maneuvers.

The invaders, under command of Capt. Ernest H. Lawson, came from Visalia, one of the base points of an enemy air force supposedly occupying northern and central California.

Sonja Henie's Father Is Dead

Henie died yesterday following a week's illness.

They'll Wear the Crowns of Great Britain Tomorrow

Tomorrow is the big day in the lives of this family. It is coronation day, when George VI and his wife, Elizabeth, will be crowned king and queen, respectively, of the British Empire. They are shown above with their daughters, Princess Elizabeth, left, and Princess Margaret Rose, in a new and hitherto unpublished portrait.

So Many 'Big Shots' Attend Martin Dinner They Have to Sit at Common Folks' Table

By "BRICK" GAINES

Last night was "Big Shots," night at the Newport Harbor Yacht club. Glenn L. Martin, the Santa Ana boy who made good in a big way with things that fly, was being honored by 150 guests. There were so many "Big Shots" there that many of them didn't even get mentioned much.

Less introduced. Take, for instance that chunky, determined looking chap at the end of a table, "way down with just the common citizens."

A few years ago he electrified the entire world with a thrilling flight across the Atlantic. He piloted Admiral Richard E. Byrd on that trip and across Antarctic wastes. His name is Commander George Noville. Heard of him?

George Noville was just another guest last night.

And then there was another man with the far-sighted gaze of the flier. This man was the toast of the entire nation a few years back. He was one of the famed NC-4 pilots who hopped the Atlantic in a mass formation navy flight that made world history. Lieut. E. G. Rhodes was another unsung hero last night.

There were many more. Harry Reynolds, now president of the Interstate Engineering Corporation, a well known flier himself. He is internationally famed as an inventor of aircraft necessities, such as the catapults which shoot planes from decks of battleships.

They all were "Big Shots," once. Even maybe Martin himself isn't a "Big Shot" to his mother.

Although he is looked upon as one of the leaders in the aviation industry, he still makes mistakes. Last night he was telling how he listened from Cleveland to Clipper ships flying in many different directions, keeping in constant touch with stations by radio.

His mother jerked his coat-tail and silenced him.

"It wasn't Cleveland, she reminded. 'It was Baltimore.'"

And the aviation "Big Shot," admitted that mother was right and he was wrong.

"It was Baltimore," he said.

Bride Balks AT ANNULMENT

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Mrs. Nan Pierson Brooks Macy Brill, New York society girl, came to court today to get an annulment of her marriage to William Hunsaker Brill, socially prominent Los Angeles man.

Suddenly, she burst into tears. She said she had been coerced into applying for the annulment, didn't want it, and wouldn't have it.

Her attorney, Russell Garner, blinked. Superior Judge Leslie E. Still gaped. Daniel Hunsaker, attorney and uncle of her husband, jumped to his feet and began to sputter.

Judge Still interrupted her torrent of words, continued the hearing for one week, and advised Mrs. Brill to get a new attorney.

FIGHT LOOMS ON METERS

Petitions Circulated to Install Parking Devices
In Santa Ana

A battle over the parking meter situation in Santa Ana loomed today.

Undismayed by the fact that 165 downtown merchants have registered vigorous protests against the parking meters, representatives of parking meter companies today launched a new move to place the meters on downtown streets.

Seek a Trial

Petitions were being circulated, asking that merchants approve a plan to give the parking meters a trial in this city. It was indicated that the purpose of the move was to secure signatures for a petition to present the city council.

At a meeting of the chamber of commerce board of directors yesterday afternoon, the report of the chamber retail division survey on parking meters, which showed a big majority of nearly 200 downtown merchants opposed to meters, was read.

The chamber directors took no action on the report, inasmuch as the directors already are on record as being opposed definitely to the parking meters.

Strong Opposition

Several months ago the chamber directors voted to oppose the parking meters.

A Santa Ana man who refused to give his name appeared in the chamber offices today to register strong opposition to the meters.

He said he had talked to 36 farmers in the Garden Grove area yesterday, and that every one of them said they would do all their trading in Anaheim and boycott Santa Ana if the meters are put in.

Rites Held for Dirigible Dead

NEW YORK. (AP)—A gangplank stairway at the North German Lloyd-Hamburg-American pier on the Hudson river was draped in mourning and banked with flowers today to serve as a platform for a mass funeral for 24 victims of the Hindenburg disaster.

The rites, set for 5 p. m., were for persons whose bodies will be sent to Europe for burial aboard the liner Hamburg, sailing at midnight tomorrow.

The board of inquiry sitting at Lakehurst to seek out the cause of the dirigible fire suspended its sessions for the ceremonies.

KING PLEDGES SERVICE TO EMPIRE

London Decorated and Ready for Rites of Westminster Abbey

LONDON. (AP)—King George VI, bridging the span between his father's reign and his own without mentioning the brief kingship of his abdicated brother, Edward VIII, made solemn pledges today to his lieutenants throughout the empire.

"I stand on the threshold of a new life... I shall do my utmost to carry on my father's work," George told the prime ministers of his dominions and representatives of India and the colonies.

His public servants, on the eve of George's coronation as king-emperor, had come through driving rain formally to pledge the allegiance of the half billion British subjects they represented.

With his Scottish queen, Elizabeth, by his side in great Buckingham Palace, the king received the loyal greetings and addresses of each representative and pledged himself to service of the empire.

"Heavy are the responsibilities that have so suddenly and unexpectedly come upon me—but it gives me great courage to know I can count on your unflinching help and affection," he said.

"For my part I shall do my utmost to carry on my father's work for the welfare of our great empire."

Edward Ignored
Attired in morning dress, the king expressed hope that in the coming year he and the queen would be able to extend their personal visits to the empire.

At no time did he mention the brief dramatic reign of his brother, King Edward VIII.

He concluded the address with a plea for unity in the empire. "Today the world is harassed by perplexity and fear," he said. "In this family of nations, linked by ties alike flexible and firm, we (See CORONATION, Page 2)

WALLY, DUKE ENGAGED

MONTS, France. (AP)—The Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Wallis Warfield were formally engaged tonight, the eve of the coronation of the king, who succeeded to the throne the duke vacated to marry her.

Herman L. Rogers, American friend of the couple, announced that Mrs. Warfield wore the former king's engagement ring today for the first time.

The platinum band with a square-cut emerald replaced the emerald engagement ring and wedding ring Mrs. Warfield wore when she was the wife of Ernest Aldrich Simpson, London ship broker, from whom she recently was divorced.

Traffic Death Is Still Mystery

Death of Z. Higashi, 35-year-old Yorba Linda ranch worker, under investigation car in a drainage ditch Saturday night or Sunday, remained a mystery today.

Deputy Coroner J. B. Casteix said no inquest would be held, since there were no witnesses to the crash and no possibility of determining the cause.

An inquest into the traffic death of Jack Showers, 27, who died Sunday from injuries incurred May 5 when the car in which he was riding struck a telephone pole, was being arranged today.

GAS COMPANY TO SPEND $272,000 IN COUNTY IMPROVEMENTS

LOCAL CHIEF TELLS 1937 BUDGET

Will Reinforce System And Provide Added Facilities

Improvements in gas facilities throughout Orange county were announced today by District Manager Fred G. Merker.

Capital outlays in excess of $272,000 to reinforce the natural gas system and provide additional service facilities for Orange county are contemplated during 1937.

The Orange county budget, just approved, calls for the laying of more than 23,000 feet of new main pipe lines at a total estimated cost of $82,887 and for the construction and reconstruction of service buildings, estimated at $26,430. An additional $125,000 probably will be spent on new mains, services, regulators and meters.

Largest single item is an appropriation of $44,000 for 16,000 feet of 12 1/2 inch main to reinforce natural gas service to Santa Ana. "These expenditures," Merker said, "are part of a general program of additions and betterments over the entire system of our company. During the last month of 1936 and the first months of 1937 we had the largest demand for natural gas in the history of the business. Everywhere we are laying new mains and building additional service facilities to provide better service for natural gas users. The total capital outlay for the Southern Counties natural gas system will exceed $1,700,000."

have inherited from our fathers a great tradition of liberty and service. I am confident that whatever life may bring us, we shall continue to work together."

Enunciation Difficult
Throughout the sincere and serious speech, the queen stood at his side. Superbly calm and confident, she glanced up at the king occasionally and smiled.

The empire statesmen, mostly older and more experienced than the king, gravely inclined their heads in agreement to his words. Only occasionally was there any evidence that he was having difficulty enunciating, and at no time did he seem nervous.

The heavy morning rain, which drove first hardy enthusiasts from their seats outside the palace on tomorrow's coronation, today forced Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin to cancel a garden party for overseas visitors which was to have been held at 10 Downing Street this afternoon.

Rain Dampens Watchers
The bedraggled early birds, determined to defend their posts for more than 24 hours to catch a glimpse of their monarch and his queen on the way to historic Westminster Abbey for the coronation ceremony, sadly returned home after sticking out the downpour for hours wrapped in sodden blankets.

The weather report for tomorrow was "chilly, overcast skies." Transportation problems beset the metropolis as a strike of 25,500 bus workers, tying up 5000 of London's familiar red omnibuses, threatened to spread to subways and street cars.

Executive transport workers called a special meeting to determine whether to call out trolley men to aid the striking bus drivers and conductors who are seeking a half hour reduction in their working day, to seven and one-half hours.

Potentates Bow Low
While the early spectators shivered in the cold rain in their long wait for the throaty roar of the dawn cannon that will announce the great day toward which all Britain has been pointing for months, the representatives of empire paraded to Buckingham Palace to represent addresses of loyal greeting to the king.

One by one, Indian potentates, dominion prime ministers and colonial leaders, bowed low before the king-emperor and gave assurance the entire empire was thoroughly represented at the coronation.

After the ceremonial, the royal hosts entertained the masters of empire at luncheon at the residence from which they will depart for Westminster Abbey to be anointed king and queen.

More Decorations
Outside and along the procession route, the sharp tap of workmen's hammers pulsed the roar of the crowds with a staccato rhythm as they put the last nails into the twisting, turning wilderness of grandstand seats to serve only for a day before they are torn down.

Decorators clambered over tall ladders, adding even more bunting to the glittering maze of masts, banners and flags that once were the streets of sedate London town. Charging Cross topped a high maypole, festooned with banners; Oxford street shimmered with tall masts draped and swathed in red; the Mall was a Gargantuan corridor of tall white masts topped with heraldic lions; Piccadilly Circus was lost in blue.

In the east end, where poverty stalks and the amount of the dole is the prime daily concern, a riotous mass of bunting and flags concealed the grimy walls of rows of bleak tenements. Shop windows were plastered with portraits of the king and queen and streets were blocked off for tea parties and dancing.

In the west end, cabarets, restaurants, night clubs and bars, whose owners have gambled hundreds of thousands of dollars against the pocketbooks of coronation visitors, added last-minute touches for the big pay-off tonight and tomorrow night.

Far beyond the outskirts of the metropolis in quaint old villages and lively bustling towns, coronation decorations spread the spirit of festivity.

London's underground railways were ordered to run all night long for the first time in history. More than 10,000,000 "passenger journeys" were expected to be made in the 24-hour period by underground bus and street car.

Some 25,000 police and 35,000 soldiers were assigned positions along the line of march to control the vast crowd of 2,000,000 persons expected to see a king and queen ride to and from their coronation.

They'll Rise Early
Thousands of first aid workers and ambulances were stationed every five yards to care for casualties expected to result from the crushing crowds.

Peers and peeresses and the members of the government who will be forced to stay in the Abbey from shortly after dawn until the king and queen leave, made light plans for today.

Most of them ordered their beds prepared early tonight and left word to be called at 3 a. m., to be dressed and in their places in the vaulted confines of Westminster Abbey at 4 a. m.

The queen herself planned to be up and ready for her hair dresser to create the elaborate coiffure necessary for her newly-made crown by 7 a. m.

A small indication of the tumult that will greet the largest city in the world tomorrow was seen last night when huge crowds estimated at more than 1,000,000 persons massed in the streets while King George entertained 450 guests at a formal state dinner.

The people roared "we want the king" for hours during the banquet which was the greatest state function since the coronation of King George V in 1911.

Wearing formal court dress of knee breeches, James W. Gerard, special American envoy to the coronation, was one of the guests of honor, sitting at the table at which the king personally presided.

Other Americans who sat side by side with royalty were Gen. John J. Pershing, in his full dress general's uniform, Admiral Hugh Rodman and Ambassador Robert W. Bingham.

Later 3000 overseas guests of the speaker of the house of commons jammed the houses of parliament at a reception.

It was almost impossible for the distinguished visitors to thread their way either backward or forward. Only strident shouts of "make way for her royal highness" cleared a path for the Princess Royal.

The Duke and Duchess of Gloucester literally had to force their way through the mass of humanity with the Duke and Duchess of Kent.

Princess Juliana of The Netherlands at one time became separated from her husband in a bad crush near the entrance to the speaker's house.

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Mrs. Charlotte Shelby, mother of the one-time screen darling, Mary Miles Minter, today demanded in a signed statement "complete exoneration or an indictment for the murder of William Desmond Taylor."

Mrs. Shelby said "for more than 10 years malicious innuendoes and rumors against me" had been circulated in connection with the mystery shooting of the prominent film director in 1922.

President Ends Fishing Jaunt

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—President Roosevelt left here by special train at 10 a. m. today for Fort Worth. He will spend the night there at the home of his son, Eliott, and leave tomorrow evening for Washington where he is due to arrive Friday morning.

The President had landed a short while before from an 11-day golf fishing cruise and motored through several miles of crowded streets of this island city en route to the train.

The people roared "we want the king" for hours during the banquet which was the greatest state function since the coronation of King George V in 1911.

CHAMBERBACKS CARRIER TAX

Directors of the chamber of commerce yesterday afternoon sent a wire to Senator Harry Westover, urging him to support the De Lap measure dealing with gross tax on carriers.

The bill amends a measure passed two years ago, and clears up the wording, which could have been interpreted to apply to private carriers as well as public carriers. The measure imposes a 3 per cent gross tax on the carriers.

Resignation of Director J. N. Harding from the board was accepted with regrets by the directors yesterday afternoon. Harding's business now takes him out of town, making it difficult for him to attend meetings. Harding had served as a director since 1934, serving two years as first vice president.

A letter from the chamber safety committee, signed by Chairman John A. Henderson, was addressed to Chairman Elmer Heidt of the city traffic safety commission. The letter pointed out that the new commission undoubtedly will take over many functions of the chamber committee. Heidt was asked to suggest some activity in the safety program in which the chamber committee could be of assistance.

Navy Plane Crash Fatal for Two

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The navy announced today that one man was missing and believed to have been killed in the crash of a patrol plane 35 miles northeast of Coco Solo, Canal Zone, today.

The commanding officer of the Coco Solo air base said the four other members of the crew were rescued by another naval plane and were being returned there. He reported the plane nosed over in a forced landing on the water and was wrecked almost in two, but remained afloat.

Reclamation Fund Okehed

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The house appropriations committee approved today a $40,981,000 appropriation to continue the West's far flung reclamation program during the 1938 fiscal year.

The total was $4,200,000 below budget estimates. Reductions of $2,500,000 in the President's recommendation for a $15,000,000 appropriation for California's Central Valley project and of $1,000,000 in the $14,000,000 asked for Grand Coulee dam in Washington accounted for most of the cut.

MORE ABOUT MARTIN

600 pounds, capable of flying 250 miles per hour with a 52 per cent gross useful load will be launched, he said. At present 35 per cent gross is considered excellent.

Within a very few years, he will build 250,000-pound ships, Martin added, when engines and propellers have been developed sufficiently. Martin told the story of his famed flight to Catalina and the difficulties encountered in preparation and during the flight, in the antiquated flying ship which carried fuel for only 55 minutes. His present ship, he explained, have a flying range of 4000 miles.

Dr. Clark B. Millikan, president of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Sciences, was toastmaster. He introduced Mrs. Nino Martin, the flyer's mother, who expressed pleasure at the honors heaped upon her son and great interest displayed in his exploits.

Mayor Harry H. Williamson of Newport welcomed guests for his community and Mayor Fred Rowland for the city of Santa Ana. Rowland also presented Martin his medal received after the flight, with an additional bar commemorating the 25th anniversary of the event.

Willard Smith, chairman of the county board of supervisors, also welcomed the flier, as did Commodore William A. Bartholomae, jr., yacht club leader.

LEGISLATURE GETS BUSY

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—With the probability of only 11 days remaining to dispose of several hundred bills, both houses of the California legislature buckled down today to consideration of some of the remaining important issues.

Old age security legislation had precedence in the assembly. The senate had the commercial truck regulation and taxation bill before it as a special order of business. The senate made short shrift of the Yorty labor relations bills designed to give the state a little Wagner act, by sustaining its labor committee's refusal to pass it out. The vote was 28 to 6.

Another major problem, raised to be an issue of the session when the governor signed the Clark-Peek-Miller bill for the consolidation of the relief administration in the department of welfare.

ATTACKER SENTENCED
LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Superior Judge Dudley Valentine imposed a sentence of one to 50 years in prison yesterday upon Raleigh Fremont, 56, mining man, recently convicted of attacking Bonnie Jean Wrinkle, 13.

of commerce secretary, presented a large picture of the county harbor as an additional memento of the occasion.

Other well known airline officials and pilots present were George T. Cussen, traffic manager for TWA, E. A. Hecker, general express manager from New York, Clancy Jayholl, public relations expert for the same firm, and Robert Craig, aviation attorney from Los Angeles.

Hosts at tables for the dinner were Paul Palmer, Capt. William J. Brown, Lew H. Wallace, L. W. Briggs and Walter Spicer.

Ship Battered by Storm, Returns

SAN PEDRO. (AP)—Battered by an 80-mile-an-hour hurricane only 150 miles offshore, the freighter City of Singapore was back in the harbor today for repairs, while 20 members of its crew were in hospitals recovering from injuries. Capt. T. R. Watkins, master of the freighter, said the hurricane struck unexpectedly, and was the worst he experienced in 40 years at sea.

Committee Vote On Court Nears

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The senate judiciary committee began its final week of deliberation on the Roosevelt court bill today by studying the compromise proposed by Senator Andrews (D., Fla.). His compromise would add two new members of the supreme court by legislation. He also proposes a constitutional amendment to require retirement of justices at 75 years of age.

Due to the decrease in enrollment in a junior high school, to return from leave of absence of teachers in the elementary and high school fields, to the possibility of some exchanges with other schools and for other reasons, the board released a large group of teachers. The action was incident to the necessity under the law that prior to May 15 annually teachers must either be notified of their reemployment or release and lacking such notice that they are automatically reelected. It was indicated that all but a very few would be reappointed.

STARTS SUIT OVER STORE CHANGE

Walter L. Moore, owner of the Moore building at Fourth and Broadway, charged today in a $25,000 damage suit that Vander-nast, Inc., started its second store at Fourth and Sycamore in order to deprive him of rent to which he was entitled.

In his complaint, prepared by Franklin G. West and Harvey & Harvey, Moore alleged today that under a lease signed in 1933, Vander-nast, Inc., was to pay him 6 per cent of the gross receipts and to guarantee at least $350 per month.

Stock Moved
Last October he said, the firm moved the best part of its stock to another building at Fourth and Sycamore, leaving only a small stock and its lower grade merchandise in the Moore building store, so that gross receipts there were cut down.

He said he has been receiving only $350 per month, but would have received more than $1000 per month had the store remained in his building.

Moore demanded $25,000 damages for asserted depreciation of the rental value, removing stock and fixtures $749.25 for improvements he said he made to the basement, and 6 per cent of the gross receipts of the entire firm since Oct. 29.

Lease Arrangement
According to Moore's complaint, the lease specifying payment of 6 per cent of the gross receipts was made to relieve the clothing firm of the burden of a previous lease covering the entire building.

Under the first lease, made in 1929, Moore said, the firm was to pay $1525 per month, but by December, 1935, was $20,000 in arrears.

He said that as consideration for the newer lease the firm agreed to pay $1500 and to give him 75 shares of stock.

Agricultural Office Is Moved

The agricultural conservation office formerly located in room 302 of the courthouse annex, has been moved to 622 North Main street, Santa Ana, quarters formerly occupied by the farm bureau. More room was required than was available at the former location.

A greater volume of work must be handled through this office this year than last because of the larger number of work sheets filed and the necessity of establishing soil conserving and soil depleting index, for each of the farms for which a work sheet is filed. Work sheets have been filed on approximately 6000 farms, according to W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor.

Growers wishing to familiarize themselves with those practices which grants are made are invited to call at either the agricultural conservation office or the farm advisor's office.

LOSES CAR

BUDGET FOR SCHOOLS IS APPROVED

A $905,100.44 school budget for the 1937-38 school year was given tentative approval by the board of education last night. The budget would require a 26-cent increase in the tax rate.

The second revision of the school budget was submitted to the board by Auditor Harold Yost. It represents a reduction of $20,167.21 over the first tentative budget submitted on April 26. The total reduction since the budget first was discussed by the board now amounts to $37,929.03.

Tax Rate Jumps
Yost revised the budget so that no more than a 26-cent advance in tax rates will be necessary to raise sufficient money to conduct the schools properly and complete the construction at Edison school. The new tax rate will be $1.42 as compared with $1.16 last year, under the new budget.

The 26-cent increase in the tax rate will raise about $65,000. The need for additional revenue cited was $31,000 for completion of the Edison school, $21,725 for a 3.5 per cent average increase in salaries and $12,275 for creation of a 1.5 per cent emergency reserve.

Increase Shown
Thirteen cents of the 26-cent increase in tax rate is for construction of Edison school. The junior college tax was raised from 18 to 19 cents, the high school fund and juvenile home fund tax was boosted from 61 to 69 cents and the elementary tax was increased from 37 to 41 cents.

The percentage of increase in the total budget over last year was given as 1.5 per cent, and about five per cent over two years ago.

MORE BY PEGLER

fact, they are quite the reverse and if Mussolini could extend his authority to the rest of the world he would abolish Caporetto and Adowa utterly.

British journalists are ornery about some things, however, and whenever the Duce threatens to unleash his invincible legions against Great Britain they inquire whether he means the same sort of invincibles who wrote the names of Caporetto and Adowa in large, if not exactly lustrous letters in Italian history, who dashed rapidly to the rear in Spain and, more recently, threw away the rifles purchased with their mothers' wedding-rings, and jumped into the sea pursued by the Spanish ladies.

Advance to Rear
In the way they mention these feats of the invincible legions there is more than a faint suggestion that the British are unimpressed. Their sales-resistance may be due in part to the recollection of the time when they, themselves, pulled out of the war in France and rushed down to Italy to turn the Italians around as they raced to Sicily, one of the greatest advances to the rear in military history.

The Duce is a proud and sensitive man and though his own papers at his own dictation constantly denounce the British, he sharply resents unkindness in the British press.

That may be hard to understand but it is quite logical and fair to the Fascist and Nazi mind, both of which resent interference in their affairs but presume to impose their censorship on the free press of Great Britain and this country.

Barefoot Fighters
The Duce recently made a speech about Adowa in which he said that Italy had a long memory and never forgot a debt. The Italians lost a whole army at Adowa 40 years ago in a fight with a barefoot tribe but captured the town last year in their great defensive war 3000 miles from home. This time, the barefoot warriors were out of town so the conquest was merely an occupation rather than a fight.

At other places where fighting was unavailing the invincible legions graciously yielded to native African troops the honor of dying for the new Italian empire.

These dispatches keenly remember the time a few years ago when Mr. Frank Cornishfield, then the editor of Varsity Fair, almost started a war with Japan by printing a cartoon showing the Japanese emperor pulling a rickshaw. Mr. Cornishfield is one of the politest men in America and it distressed him to figure as the Gavrilo Princip of a new World war so he promptly expressed regret and averted the holocaust.

Great Loss
So these dispatches are studiously avoiding reference to Adowa, Caporetto and the recent Fascist advances, to the rear, in Spain.

It would be a great loss if the Duce should withdraw the charming Italian journalists from our midst although the blow would be less severe if he would take along with them the Unione Siciliana and a few boat-loads of Lucky Luciano and Johnny Torrios, his Anselmi's and Scaleses, his Joe Atellos and Al Capones.

The Duce's speech about Italy's long memory, while ominous to the British, may be a message of cheer to this country. For 40 years Italy remembered Adowa and finally paid the Ethiopians back. He hasn't said anything about paying back the war debt to the United States but it is good to know that he doesn't forget.

Townsend News, Views

By
WALTER R. ROBB

From the time he began speaking before the Townsend clubs back in 1934, the writer has sounded a warning against communism and fascism as foes of our democratic form of government and that there were movements under way in America on the part of both of these isms intent on supplanting democracy with their favored brand of dictatorial form of government. The writer warned that the thought life of a great deal of America had been made a fertile soil for the spread and germination of the seed of these two dangerous forms of governmental doctrine.

Senator William E. Borah only last Thursday sounded a solemn warning that an "insidious, subtle" campaign is being waged to supplant the American form of government with fascism. Borah said, "There can be no compromise between democracy and either fascism or communism."

Senator Borah said, "Democracy is worth fighting for. He voiced the fear that Americans don't realize what efforts are being put forth by fascism in particular."

"It has far more supporters in this country," he said, "than communism, and they are much more active and much more adroit in the manner in which they are accomplishing their end. Both are avowed enemies of democracy, both would destroy individual liberty, both would establish in its place abject economic and political serfdom."

In conclusion the senator said, "I have no choice between communism and fascism. But they are both enemies of every vital liberty and every right and privilege of the average man or woman." These are not the words of a ranting sensationalist, but of an outstanding member of the foreign relations committee of the United States senate sincerely interested in averting the tragedy of the loss of democratic freedom for Americans. They come from one who has fought long and well for the interests of the common American and should be taken seriously by the business men of this community and the nation.

Where the minds of the populace are content because justice is being meted out to the rank and file neither the advocates of communism nor fascism could obtain a hearing. The only thing being offered in America now that will avert the tragedy of democracy being engaged in conflict with one or the other of these two foes is the Townsend plan. Which do you business men want, the continued privilege of democratic freedom made more glorious by the economic uplift of the Townsend plan, or the shackles of the tyranny that will come with either communism or fascism? The writer is firmly convinced the time rapidly approaches when you will find it necessary to make a choice. Why not do it now, while there is time to help save American democracy for the people?

Don't forget that old-time box supper being staged by Santa Ana Club No. 6 in the West Fourth street Townsend hall at 7:30 to-night. Ladies are asked to bring lunch for two. The gentlemen will select their partners through shadow pictures, and buy the lunch boxes. A door prize will be given. Members of all Townsend clubs are invited to come. The ladies of the other clubs are requested to come with boxes. Club No. 8 is joining in the affair.

President Grant Henderson of Santa Ana Club No. 11 requests that all the members of his club take notice that Santa Ana Club No. 5 has extended an invitation to Club No. 11 to attend the meeting being held at 7:30 tonight in the Richland Avenue Methodist church at South Parton and Richland streets, when the Rev. CHANGE SEEN FOR RELIEF PROGRAM

Bill Would Limit Tax For Counties To 16 Cent Rate

Broad changes in the administration and financing of relief in Orange county and California will be made if Governor Merriam signs the so-called supervisors' bill placed before him last week by the legislature.

Supervisors here were notified that as passed by the legislature, the bill contains a provision which limits the county's responsibility for relief to a 16-cent tax rate.

This provision, which supervisors contended was the prime virtue of the bill, was stricken out by the senate, but restored by the assembly before final passage.

Under the bill the administration of relief is placed in the hands of boards of supervisors. State supervision is given to the state department of social welfare, which is given power to prescribe and enforce uniform regulations as to eligibility and to set minimum and maximum budgets for various types of cases.

It is provided that supervisors may set up a works program and require relief recipients to work for the sums they are paid. The "pauper's oath" provision is removed by the new bill.

FIFTEEN FINED FOR SPEEDING

City Judge John G. Mitchell had a field day with speeders yesterday, and vice versa.

Fifteen motorists paid fines ranging from $2 to $12. Hiram Arnold Austin paid $150 on drunk driving charges, and Jose Hernandez went to jail for 75 days instead of paying a similar amount.

Charged with speeding and missing a boulevard stop, Kurt F. Ehlen paid $2. George G. Archer paid $6 for speeding and glaring headlights.

Other speeding fines were: Robert B. Brown, $8; Willard Fernald, $6; Ray Preslar, $8; Horace G. Sonneborn, $6; John M. Starkey, $12; Waldo V. Wood, $6; Tommy Emonio, $10; Arthur E. Farley, $6; George Barch, $5; Howard M. Gover, $8; Dr. E. F. Badgley, $5; Mahel H. Cheney, $10, and Ernest A. Lagier, $6.

Edgar Dugan paid $2 for missing a boulevard stop and Frank Lansdown was fined $1 for over-time parking.

ORANGE COSTS TAKE DROP

Last year Orange county orchardists produced oranges cheaper than they did the previous year.

This was shown in an annual Valencia cost-of-production study announced today by Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg. Owners of 64 groves cooperated in the annual study.

Total of all costs, including depreciation and interest on investment, labor and materials, amounted to $252.87 per acre in 1936. The 10-year average of total cost per acre is $307.07.

In 1936 the average yield was 177 packed boxes per acre as compared with 247 boxes in 1935 and 212 boxes for the past 10 years.

Good trees, good soil, conservative irrigation, proper fertilization, cultivation and pest control were shown to be essential in profitable growing of oranges.

Coronation In Santa Ana

Here's a royal pair that would steal the show in England. They'll be king and queen of the Santa Ana Junior college fiesta next Friday. Don Allen Titensor and Dona Margaret Crowell will reign over the tenth annual jaysce fiesta following coronation ceremonies in which Father Joseph Thompson of Los Angeles will officiate. Senior students of Orange county high schools will be guests of the college at the fiesta.

FIELD LABOR SITUATION PEACEFUL

R. D. Flaherty, executive secretary of the Orange County Farm bureau, expects neither a labor shortage nor labor agitation in connection with harvesting field crops this year.

"Judging from experience of past years," Flaherty explained, "there will be no shortage of labor. The Mexican laborers in this county, augmenting other workers already here, probably will fill all ordinary jobs."

Flaherty's organization is in close connection with the National Reemployment service, located in the postoffice building here. Either those wishing employment as laborers, or employers wanting one or more men to hire, may place their applications with this bureau, Flaherty explained. Charles Fallert is in charge of the NRS.

Flaherty expressed satisfaction at the peaceful condition of the labor front. "The workers and growers are getting along very well," he pointed out, "and they probably will continue to do so."

The biggest part of the money that comes into Orange county, in the form of agricultural payments, goes into either labor or transportation costs, Flaherty said. The average annual farm yield is more than $35,000,000, and a large part is paid out in wages. Flaherty said there would be little increase in the number of laborers needed. On the basis of 1935 totals, the potential number of workers that will be required to fill agricultural demands is the same, he said. Monthly estimates of the 1935 labor needs for beans, including

Dirigible Blast Newsreel Still On View Here

Last chance to see the spectacular newsreel pictures of the Hindenburg disaster will be offered at the Broadway theater tonight.

However, the pictures will be shown at the West Coast theater the balance of this week, it was announced by the management.

both blackeyes and limas, are: June, 553; July, 260; August, 355, and September, 428.

Labor Needs
About 400 men are now estimated to be at work in the beet fields, based on the 1935 figures, and the need in July will drop to near 100. The estimated number of workers for August and September is 900, with this figure dropping to 100 again in October.

On the basis of 1935 reports, there are now 150 men at work in the pepper fields. This figure will hover near 200 for the months of June, July and August, will skyrocket to 900 in September, and go still higher in October and November, hitting a high of 1200 in those months. It will drop to the December normal of 500 soon after.

In tomato fields the situation will be somewhat different, the peak of 1660 workers coming in August and September, judging by 1935 figures. The usual worker numbers are 300, 400 and 700 for May, June and July. In October the number will drop from 1660 to 1000, and further to 900 in November.

HOLLYWOOD.—Paul Muni is extremely beard-conscious. Pas-tur had to wear one. So now does Zola. But Muni's beard in "The Woman I Love" was his own idea.

He said it would emphasize the difference in ages between himself and Louis Hayward, the other corner of the triangle, and also would make his character appropriately less attractive to Miriam Hopkins.

This apparently was carrying realism and art too far for the exploitation department. The ads on "The Woman I Love" show Muni clean-shaven. Beards still are regarded as unromantic.

Seeks Role As Scarlet

Miss Hopkins, mentioned more than any other actress for the Scarlet O'Hara role, thinks it is all very lovely except that—

"I wish someone would get around to asking me to play it," she laughs. "That's what I'm waiting for."

When I told her she was my choice because I liked her "Becky Sharp," she said: "You and my mother, bless you both!"

Kidding aside, she isn't counting on getting the role, believes it really will go to an unknown actress. Reminded that she'd probably have the vote of the solid south, she laughed appreciatively: "But there have been years in which the solid south couldn't carry the election. Maybe this will be one of them."

With open season on commencement oratory around the corner, it's nice of Marjorie Main to come out with this encouraging thought: the high school orator of today may be the movie star of tomorrow.

Miss Main, here from the Broadway stage to play in "Stella Dallas" and "Dead End" for Columbia, is from Acton, Ind., and she won the state oratorical championship for high schools at the age of 15. She isn't saying that her victory insured her stage success, but she does say that a boy or girl who can speak a piece convincingly has a head-start as a potential actor.

Records Bear Her Out

The records would seem to bear her out. Walter Brennan won the Swampscott (Mass.) high school speaking contest in 1914 and still treasures the prize, a set of books. Victor Jory and Joel McCrea were on college debating teams at the University of California and Pomona college respectively. Fay Wray won a speaking contest in her native Canada, and Rochelle Hudson copped a cup at Van Nuys high.

But it doesn't necessarily work. I made a high school oration once myself and what did it get me? ...

Irvy Cummings, the director, used to be a leading man and he's still an actor. "Vogues of 1938" marks his debut as an actor behind a color camera, however. He acts out the parts for his players just as he does when working in black-and-white film.

And that's how he is shooting the picture, too, with no taboos because of the color medium. Cummings made a hit film of "The White Parade," a story about "cursed" training. He's trying now to show the lives and tribulations of fashion models in the same manner—"with a laugh in every scene—I hope!"

Ted Peckman, of that gentleman escort service, is the most open publicity-seeker to hit town in months. After Paramount gave up its escort picture idea, Ted got himself a press agent but I doubt if it did any good. ...

TEACHERS TO GET HEALTH
TESTS

All Santa Ana school teachers will be asked to take complete physical examinations and tuberculin tests.

But this is not the desire of Chairman George Wells of the board of education, who opposed the proposal recommended by Dr. Margaret Baker of the school board last night.

Following considerable discussion on the matter, Chairman Wells asked for a roll call vote on the proposition. His was the only dissenting vote.

The matter, discussed before by the board of education, came to a climax last night when Dr. Baker urged the board to require teachers to take physical examinations plus tuberculin tests. The teachers will be notified of the action of the board when they receive notices of their election.

Chairman Wells protested the move, saying the board could not force teachers to take the examination. He questioned also the advisability of making the teachers pay for the examinations themselves. Dr. Baker suggested that they could either pay to have their private physicians make the examinations or take them from the school physician.

DR. BAKER WILL
HEAD T. B. UNIT

Dr. Margaret Baker, member of Santa Ana's board of education, was elected president of the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association at a meeting held last night.

Other officers elected were Le Roy E. Lyon, first vice president; the Rev. Arthur Hutchison, second vice president; Dr. M. W. Hollingsworth, secretary; A. J. Cruickshank, treasurer; C. W. Kohlenberger and Mrs. J. Williams Sandburg, directors.

Miss Beatrice Woodward, San Francisco tuberculosis division worker, gave a report on her activities here. She has spoken at 30 meetings to more than 400 adults and 5000 school children. A part of her programs was the sound film "Behind the Shadows," used in the anti-tuberculosis campaign.

Snow Will Keep
S. A. River High

Streams in the Santa Ana river system will flow high for weeks yet.

After studying the hard snow pack in the mountains that will feed the Santa Ana river and its tributaries this summer, President J. J. Prendergast of the Bear Valley Water company, said today there is sufficient to keep the streams high for weeks.

Prendergast does not believe irrigation water will be drawn from Bear Lake before Aug. 1.

"From now until then there will be storage," he said. "It is at the rate of an inch a day at the present time. The lake is now at the 62-foot mark at the dam, which is 72 feet high. It may go to 65 feet before any water is withdrawn."

Snow is still on the ground from the 6700-foot level up.

"LAURELS ARE CUT DOWN"

By Archie Binns

"The Laurels Are Cut Down" is primarily a war story, but while it does not minimize the horror and uselessness of war, on the other hand it does not cynicize the often sadly neglected emotion of patriotism. George and Alfred, born and bred on the shore of Puget Sound, had seen hard work turn the wilderness into the semblance of a promised land. Their own hands had gone into the development of the country, and when that country entered the World War, there was no question in their minds but to enlist.

Their detachment was sent to Siberia, and the story describes in some detail that little understood Allied expedition which remained 15 months after the armistice. Mercifully, Mr. Binns spared his readers eye witness accounts of atrocities committed by White and Red Russians, alike. We know only of the effect of such incidents on George and Alfred, who impatiently longed to get back to their own country where their roots went down deeply. George did not come home, and Alfred found himself the target of anti-Red agitators. He had a chance to run away with another man's wife, take a high paying position in Russia. But he was too strongly steeped in the love of America and American traditions. It is this feeling for American ideals, and the ambitions of the latter day pioneers, which makes "The Laurels Are Cut Down" differ from countless other war stories. Let us hope it is a step back to the inspiring literature of another generation.

Dupont, Raskob
Cases Continue

NEW YORK, (AP)—The income tax case against Pierre S. Du Pont and John J. Raskob entered its second week Monday before Richard L. Disney of the U. S. board of tax appeals, with government attorneys centering their attention on what they contend was the "balancing off" transaction in the 1929 gross-sales of stocks between the two industrialists.

Du Pont and Raskob deducted losses totalling more than $7,000,000 on their 1929 returns. The government, charging the sales were fictitious and were accompanied by a repurchasing understanding, seeks to collect $1,026,340 deficiency tax from Raskob and $617,316 from Du Pont.

Superintendent Frank A. Henderson joined Hammond in recommending the appointment of the doctor of philosophy, who has appeared here a number of times on the federal forum programs and who has taught in Midwestern universities.

President George Wells was a little wary of the appointment, questioning Henderson and Hammond closely about the doctor's politics. Dr. Mason was born in Germany of American parents, and lived in that country for 19 years. He comes here highly recommended by every school with which he has been connected. Superintendent Henderson read the flattering recommendations he received after making inquiries.

NEW TWIN BILL
DUE AT STATE

Rolling comedy is combined with mystery and drama in the new twin bill scheduled for showing Wednesday and Thursday at the State theater.

The comedy is "We're on the Jury," featuring Victor Moore and Helen Broderick, while the mystery and drama are furnished in "Smart Blonde," starring Glenda Farrell and Barton MacLane.

"We're on the Jury" concerns the clever methods employed by a woman juror to free another woman accused of the murder of her husband, and to solve the killing. Her methods are unusual, but they bring results and lots of laughs. In the cast with Moore and Miss Broderick are Phillip Huston, Louise Latimer, Robert McWade, Vinton Haworth, Earle Foxe and Charles Middleton.

Miss Farrell in "Smart Blonde" portrays the role of a reporter who, with the aid of MacLane, a detective, solves a murder mystery. It is the first of a series of comedy-dramas in which the central figure is "Torchy" Blane, all portrayed by Miss Farrell.

Others in the cast include Winifred Shaw, Craig Reynolds, Addison Richards, Jane Wyman, Charlotte Winters, David Carlyle and Joseph Crehan.

A comedy and a novelty short also are on the program.

This department already has gone on record as favoring the National Nightball league, holding their premieres tonight, to finish in the following order, come September:

1. Huntington Beach.
2. Santa Ana.
3. Anaheim.
4. San Bernardino.
5. Colton.
6. Orange.
7. Westminster.
8. Riverside.

We stood by the favorite and picked War Admiral in the Kentucky Derby, and believe we can name the winners of all four games tonight, to-wit:

Santa Ana over Riverside at Huntington Beach over Westminster at Huntington Beach.

Anaheim over Orange at Anaheim.

San Bernardino over Colton at Colton.

If this crystal-balling holds true, San Bernardino will be the only team to win on the road.

Bill Low, Coach Joe Koegler's industrious little manager, has compiled some interesting statistics on Santa Ana's Saints, who won 10 and lost 9 games in prep baseball competition during the season just closed.

Low's official averages show Joe Standifer, catcher-third baseman, outfielder, paced the Walnut street preps with a league average of .400, a seasonal mark of .363. Jack McClure boasted the best record of the pitchers with a mound average of .750 to Tommy Wilkins' .600. McClure hit .290 for the season, Wilkins .193. . . . Norman Wisdom, reserve second-sacker, had a 1.000 percentage in league games (but was credited with only one time at bat).

Other hitting percentages (for the season): Ben Byland, .359; Joe Ortega, .259; Gene O'Campo, .230; Norman Wisdom, .222; Pete Partida, .196; Mitsuo Nitta, .183; Ernest Barrett, .167; Jim Wendorf, .165.

Rugby, the fast and furious game that gained favor here this season, may attract upwards of 1000 fans next year if Ernest Buterworth, the Canadian, returns as instructor. . . . Americans will take to the game when they become more familiar with the rules.

There must be something to the sport. . . . Sixty thousand (60,000) fans packed the Wembley stadium in London to see Widdess, doughty Lancashire club, humble Keighley, 18-5, for the England Rugby league cup. Last year Leeds won the trophy with an 18-2 victory over Warrington.

BOXING CARD
ANNOUNCED

Another triple main event program, equal to the all-star program presented last week, was announced today by Matchmaker George Stewart for the fights at the Orange County Athletic club Thursday night.

Heading the card is an outstanding heavyweight scrap, with handsome John Hanschen, 190-pound Riverside fighter, sliding through the ropes to face black Henry Moberly, the L. A. giant. Hanschen is hailed by observers as one of the most promising amateur heavyweights in Southern California. Moberly, however, is a tall negro who may give him plenty of trouble.

Rapidly whipping himself into top fight form, the popular Newport Beach battler, Jack Jones, will face a rugged scrapper from Los Angeles, Huel James, in a 170-pound match which is the second phase of the triple main event program. Jones, a terrific puncher, has won every start at the local fighthouse.

Rico Martinez, 140-pound Sherman Indian who is so tough and so good he has a hard time getting a fight, will face Jimmy Johnson, a boy they say is just about as tough. But fans who have seen the Indian scalp the best of the amateurs here give the edge to Martinez, who plans to turn pro in the near future.

Stewart reminded boxing fans that the fights change back to Thursday this week in order not to conflict with the nightball schedule.

Maurice Young's home run over the scoreboard in the fifth inning, with a man on, gave the Montgomery Ward team a victory over the previously undefeated Elks, 6-5, and Armand (Lefty) Hanson struck out 14 M. E. South batters to chalk up a win for the Grand Central Market, 16-0, in City league games at the Bowl last night.

Only three hits were made off of the offerings of Joe Rapier, Elks pitcher, but six bases on balls paved the way for a defeat for the lodge chucker. Walt Jordan pithed the Montgomery Ward team, striking out six and holding the dangerous Elks sluggers in check except for two innings.

Wards got the first run in the opening inning on walks to Young and "Red" Sullivan, and a pair of passed balls. The Elks came back in the third with three when Fred Cartwright singled, Ralph Barnes was safe on a fielder's choice as Al Sievert was thrown out at the plate, and Ray Short hit a homer into deep right field.

From the second on, Jordan held the Elks down without a hit until the seventh. Meanwhile his teammates kept pushing runs across on walks, wild pitches and errors.

Rapier of the Elks let down only in the fifth against Ward's Russell Gunden tripled into center and scored ahead of Young's home run blast. Walt Jordan tried to sow up the game with a long triple in the seventh, but he was left stranded when Meyer fled to Paiz to Short.

The Elks came back in their half of the seventh to score twice, but left the tying run on second base. Barnes singled and romped home ahead of Ray Short's second homer into deep right. Rapier hit a long single into right field, only to die on base when "Scottie" Scott struck out and Leroy Levens grounded out, Wendorf to Hitt.

Norman Paul Falter of M. E. South team started with Norman Paul of U. S. C. fame on the mound, but thought better when 12 runs had been scored in four innings off of the ex-hurrier's pitching. Ross Boyd did little better, with four runs and six hits in two innings. Hanson had every pitch under control, not issuing a single walk for the market team.

The Grand Centrals made four in the second on two errors, an outfield fly and two singles. Roy Warrecker's triple netted a run when he came home on a passed ball in the third.

Two home runs featured the next inning for the Grand Centrals, when they pushed seven runs across the plate. Dick Kendall hit his first of two homers into the upper tier of the left field stands, and Warrecker banged one into right.

O'Campo's double was the other hard hit ball of the inning. Six home runs were made by four men last night, but none compared with two by Kendall in the second game. The first cleared the aisle dividing the grandstand, and the second nearly went over the bleachers.

MILKMAN HURLS FOR OAKS
Oakland Signs Bill Ludolph

By The Associated Press

The Oakland Aorns, solid contenders for the Pacific Coast league baseball crown, announced today they are getting immediate pitching help from a milkman and the New York Yankees.

Bill Ludolph, hefty right-hander who the Oaks last season, who deserted baseball to become a milk trucker, has signed a unique contract to hurl for the Aorns as at home and once went to the Yankees after winning 17, losing 13 and fanning 158 with the Oaks last season, is being sent back to the coast for more experience.

Ludolph's contract calls for mound assignments when the Aorns are at home and once in a while in Los Angeles, but never in the Pacific northwest. He will do his chucking in night games and on Sunday, allowing him to give his milk route the fullest attention.

STEINKE FOUL
SCORES FOR
SZABO HEREMehring and Underhill
Battle to Fast Draw in Secondary Bout

By PAUL WRIGHT

Herr Hans Steinke has a peculiar habit of beating himself at the Highway 101 wrestling wars.

For the second time in three weeks of his main-eventing here, The Frankenstein of the squared ring has lost on a foul.

Least night he couldn't keep his hands and fists off Sando Szabo, Hungarian Adonis, after the heavyweights had tumbled into press row during the deciding fall of their hour engagement. He was quickly disqualified.

Applies Arm Lock
Two weeks ago the hand of Vincent Lopez was raised when Steinke made the mistake of slugging Gentleman Joe Vargas, the referee, in the third fall.

The German giant applied a combination arm lock and leg hold to keep the first fall in 17 min. 33 secs. of luke-warm tossing, but Szabo retaliated with an arm lock to annex the second in 12 min. 12 secs. after breaking Steinke's punishing, crushing "boomerang" hold by crawling into the ropes.

Szabo, in a playful mood, slapped Steinke a couple of times with what were not exactly love pats in the third fall. Steinke became riled, picked up the Hungarian and rolled over the ropes into the north press section. The German kept slugging until the referee steered him back into the ring to raise the hand of Szabo after 4 min. 13 secs.

Beaten to a Pulp
Peter Mehninger, the Los Angeles professional griddler, and popular Young Sticker on a foul to a fast and furious draw with Walter Underhill, New York City rougher, Mehninger almost beat the metropolitan mat-ador to a pulp on two occasions, with blood streaming from his mouth. Pete, however, was caught in a hanging hold between the ropes by Underhill, and received about as much punishment as he dished out.

Karl Schultz, the complaining crusher, who is the No. 1 booted performer at the club, lost to Dutch Holland, newcomer from Hollywood, on a flying tackle in 16 min. 55 secs. Holland broke a painful toe hold before making his "kill."

Little Caesar was penalized for unnecessary roughness in the preliminary, which went to Orange county's Young Sticker on a foul after 15 min. 43 secs. They were even-Stephen up to the disqualification.

Smith Set for
Riverside Here

Eight teams with a common interest—to gain the Shaughnessy playoffs in September—square off on four fronts tonight with the opening of the National Nightball league season. Riverside, one of three American league orphans admitted to the local circuit, comes to the Municipal bowl for a premiere with Santa Ana's Stars at 8 o'clock.

Huntington Beach's defending Southern California champions, victorious in 11 of 12 warm-up games, open at their own park against Francis Penhall's Westminster Aviators, strengthened by the acquisition of players from Ben Gelker's olive combine, Orange at Anaheim.

Orange's Cubs, with their sensational Roger Larimer on the knoll, open against the league's dark-horse, Anaheim's Valencias at Anaheim.

San Bernardino and Colton, new members of the eight-team wheel should wage a bitter battle at Colton in the other premiere.

Santa Ana's Stars start with a new manager, a new pitcher and a new spirit.

The new spirit is Dr. Raymond Smith, veteran infielder who will pilot his club from second base. The new pitcher is Earl Morrill, "The Grand Old Man of Nightball," who made a brilliant record at Covina last summer.

Morrill is well along in his 30s, and has been connected with the nocturnal pastime for more than 10 years. He is a right-handed "stiff" pitcher. His assistant will be Mel Toller, 6-3 southpaw giant from Abilene, Tex.

The new spirit is no stranger to the fans who have seen the Stars hit the ball lustily and field sensationally in most of their exhibitions.

Against Riverside, the team Santa Ana mastered in exhibition games, Manager Smith will experiment with a new lineup, sending the heavyset, Nan Coots back of the plate, and shifting Bomo Koral into rightfield.

There will be two newcomers—Bob Mott at first and Charley Comstock at short—in Santa Ana's lineup. Mott, a southpaw, has been fielding sensationally and hitting the ball hard. He is a recruit from Joe's Grocery champions of the Santa Ana City league. Comstock is well-known to local fans through his play at Anaheim.

Donny Denney, one of the finest hitters in the league, has been named as reserve catcher, to take over the reins if leftfielder post with the Stars. He has not drilled with the Santa Ana club this spring, but is in good condition after workouts at Los Angeles Roosevelt High school, where he coaches. Charley Nix, who hit above .300 with Covina last year, will be in centerfield, with Catcher Koral in right.

Riverside plans to start De Greene on the mound, with Rudy Heman, onetime Olive threat who led the American league in hitting last year, in reserve. Heman has been in suit only a few days.

Catcher Jeff Jefferson and Second Baseman Maurice (Buck) White set a sizeable pace for the rail-ponders at the plate with four hits apiece. Earl Bagwell and Fred Wiener hit safely three times. Wilmer Swafford, assisted by Wiener in the latter innings, pitched five-hit ball for the winners.

C. I. O. Launches Drive to Organize Citrus Pickers

FEAR RANKS OF WORKERS TO SPLIT

One Group Applies For Charter In American Labor Federation

A new drive by C. I. O. organizers to bring citrus pickers into their organization was reported from several quarters today.

Persons close to the labor situation said the new drive is expected to split the ranks of the citrus pickers wide open.

Part of the pickers favor joining the American Federation of Labor, as was shown when a formal application for a charter was made at a meeting here Saturday night when Organizer Fred West accepted the application and $25 for the charter payment.

Members of the other camp favor affiliation with the C. I. O., it was declared. This division of opinion is expected to have some definite result, it was said, in that the pickers would not have time now to organize a strike if they so desired. However, no major trouble such as was experienced last year with the citrus pickers' strike is anticipated this year.

Persons connected with the National Employment Service and with growers' organizations said it is generally known that organizers for the C. I. O. are working in the county. They now are concentrating on the dairy workers, the citrus workers, it was said.

A representative of the growers said that he expects the application for an A. F. of L. charter will be refused, and that the citrus pickers will affiliate with the C. I. O.

Board Will Aid Honor Students

A permanent fund to aid honor students in the high school and junior college will be set aside each year by the board of education.

On motion of Dr. Margaret Baker, board member, the board of education last night voted to set aside $150 out of next year's budget to help purchase scholarship pins and certificates for high school and college honor students.

These pins and certificates will be presented at graduation exercises. Funds needed to do similar work for this year also will be set aside by the school board.

Dr. Baker said the school board should recognize scholastic endeavor as well as athletics.

Unlawful Detainer Suit Is Filed

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Burkett, jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heim are named defendants in an unlawful detainer suit filed in Santa Ana justice court yesterday by Maude E. Kaufman.

The complaint, filed by S. B. Kaufman, attorney, charges the Burkett and the Heims leased a house at 901 Lowell street on February 4, agreeing to pay $42.50 a month rent. A month's rent is now due, it claims, and asks that the tenants be evicted and judgment given for $42.50 plus $10 a day for any further time the defendants stay in the house.

Hansons Return From Mexico Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hanson of 412 Orange avenue and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Fromhold of Los Angeles returned home Sunday from a three-week trip to Mexico City and other points.

Making the trip by motor, they drove into Mexico by way of Laredo, thence south to the capital, which they made their headquarters while taking side trips to interesting towns and places in the surrounding country. On the return trip, they visited the Carlsbad caverns.

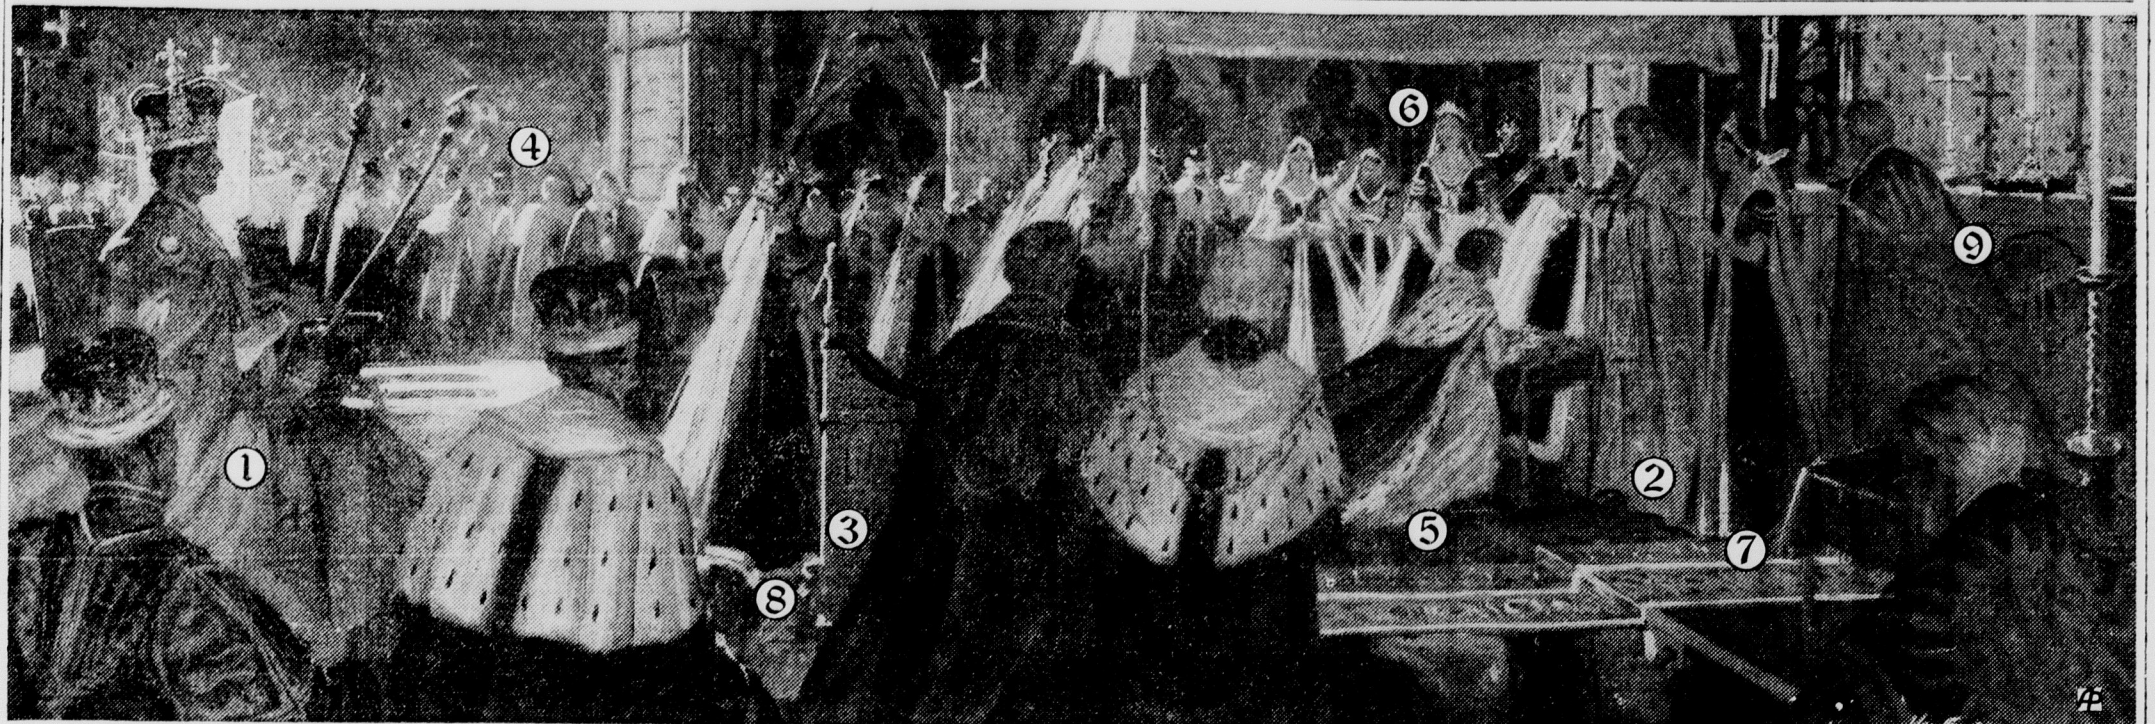

Officers Seek Chicken Thieves

Chicken thieves who got away with 70 hens over the week-end in raids on two ranches were being sought today by the sheriff's office farm detail.

L. A. Smith, Garden Grove, lost 10 hens Sunday night when thieves cut his fence and entered his yard; and R. C. Young, Anaheim, had 60 hens stolen from his ranch Saturday night.

EDISON SCHOOL JOB PLANNED

Construction work to complete the Edison school plant is expected to get under way in the near future.

The school board paved the way for completion of the construction program last night by adopting a motion to go ahead with plans for work which will cost about $31,000 and which will be paid out of tax money in next year's budget.

Work still to be done includes construction of four more classrooms and school offices. Two classrooms and the school auditorium have been completed.

President George Wells of the board of education was authorized to name a committee to negotiate a contract with Architect Frederick Eley for plans for the project. Eley already has worked on the plans for the school plant.

A delegation of parents from the school recently appeared before the school board to urge early completion of the school building, pointing out the unsatisfactory condition of the unfinished building for the children.

Plan Red Cross Good Will Day

Plans for two coming events were discussed at the executive committee meeting of Santa Ana Red Cross chapter Friday. Miss Hazel Nell Bemis, Junior Red Cross chairman, reported reservations coming in for the International Good Will day celebration for junior May 15 in Orange. The chapter decided to unite with the other county groups in a disaster relief dinner June 10, place to be announced later.

Monthly reports showed six first aid stations now in operation in the chapter, six first aid classes now under instruction and nine completed since January. Completion of lifesaving tests by 22 Santa Ana High school girls was reported.

The executive committee will have a joint meeting June 4 with the board of directors of the chapter.

If you were to be lucky enough to have a place in the grandstand—the royal box—at Westminster abbey Wednesday, this is the eminent spectacle that you could expect to witness. In the AP feature service artist's conception of the coronation theater, George VI (1) has just been crowned King of Great Britain by the Archbishop of Canterbury (2) and has moved from the St. Edward's chair (3) to his own throne. While the king, peers and peeresses (4), bishops and princes of the blood (foreground) all watch, Queen Elizabeth (5) kneels at Canterbury's feet to receive her crown. Among her attendants is a mistress of the robes, (6), four duchesses, each supporting a corner of the canopy (as No. 7 is doing), and a group of train bearers (like No. 8). Assisting Canterbury is the Dean of Westminster (9). Yes, folks, it's quite a show.

BOARD EMPLOYEES FIND JOBS FOR S. A. LAWYER DON STUDENTS

B. Z. McKinney, local attorney and chairman of the county Democratic central committee, has been hired by the board of supervisors to represent Purchasing Agent Eugene Fencion in a court battle Friday over the county purchasing policy, it was learned today.

Under a writ of mandamus issued last week by Presiding Superior Judge H. G. Ames, Fencion was ordered to deliver an L. C. Smith typewriter to County Auditor W. T. Lambert or to appear in court Friday to explain why he should not do so.

His explanation, and the court's ruling to follow are expected to settle the broad question of whether the board of supervisors, through the purchasing department, can dictate why supplies are to be purchased for various county offices, or whether the county officers may specify their own purchases.

The new junior college placement bureau really is finding jobs for students.

This was shown in the first report submitted to the board of education last night by Superintendent F. A. Henderson.

The report, made by George B. Holmes, head of the commercial department at the junior college who is in charge of the placement bureau, showed that in one week five students had been placed in jobs and that five more were in the process of being placed.

Teachers planning to return from leave of absence are Mrs. Eleanor Christie, Mrs. Juanita Fletcher, Mrs. Hazel Hesselin and Mrs. Helen Johnston in the elementary field, and Lulu B. Finley and Ruth Rowland in the high school.

She had taught school for 40 years, 27 years in Santa Ana and 13 years in Los Angeles.

Miss Crookshank Resigns
A request of Eleanor Crookshank that her resignation be made effective the close of the school year was granted. Miss Crookshank has been teaching in Jefferson school.

Resignation of Mrs. Rhea Miller Ross, school nurse who now is married and on leave of absence, also was accepted.

European Danger List Augmented by Belgium According to Mrs. Valley

Power Keenly Divided By Policy

Edict of Neutrality Revives Pre-War Alliances

Firm in her conviction that any forthcoming war will arise from trouble in one of the smaller, more "insignificant" countries, Mrs. Jack Valley yesterday afternoon injected Belgium into her previously mentioned trio of Lithuania, Czechoslovakia, and Portugal, all "possible hot-beds of German aggression."

Belgium has become a reckoning force within the past few weeks, she declared, by its resumption of a neutrality status. Belgium's repudiation of the Locarno treaty has resulted in decided and powerful alliances that once again slash the map of Europe into two camps.

It has formed an "entente cordiale" between Great Britain, France, and therefore, Russia, and it has definitely lined up Germany, Austria, and Italy in a triple alliance of great significance, according to the dynamic woman lecturer whose analyses of current books go hand in hand with surveys of international politics.

Reasons for Stand

Belgium's reasons for the neutrality position which is eminently satisfactory to Germany and her allies, according to Mrs. Valley, are manifold. She is definitely not in sympathy with Leftist French government, because she fears communism even more than Hitlerism. She is, moreover, no longer afraid of Germany since Hitler's recent announcement that he did not look to western Europe for holdings. Because of Belgium's strong Catholicism, she does not want an alliance with France and hence atheistic Russia.

More definite inclination to the triple entente, too, said Mrs. Valley, "is created by King Leopold's close relationship to the Crown Princess of Italy (his sister), and most important of all, the strong Nazi backing of the new Rexist party in Belgium."

She analyzed the rapid strides of the little country's new political unity in the Rexist party in considerable detail to wind up her summary of the Belgian situation, and then turned briefly to the Spanish rebellion which she had discussed earlier in the season.

Fascists in Spain

Most interesting to her in this situation's recent development was what she characterized as "England's and Italy's shut-eye policy." "Great Britain is closing her eyes to the presence of an hundred thousand Fascist soldiers in France's army," she declared, "with only the evident understanding that by so doing, Germany will get out of Spain."

Mrs. Valley reiterated her review of the European situation with quoting what she deemed "a rash allegation that must, nevertheless, be given consideration."

"A recent English periodical of excellent reputation has advanced an idea which we cannot afford to ignore," she said. "It suggested that the logical time for quiet precipitation of international war is this week, the Coronation."

When all eyes are turned on London, this magazine warns of the possibility of incited uprisings in Czechoslovakia which would permit Germany and Austria, or Germany and Japan, "their mutual 'self-world policing' declaration to enter the little country for the purpose of 'quelling Communistic uprisings.'"

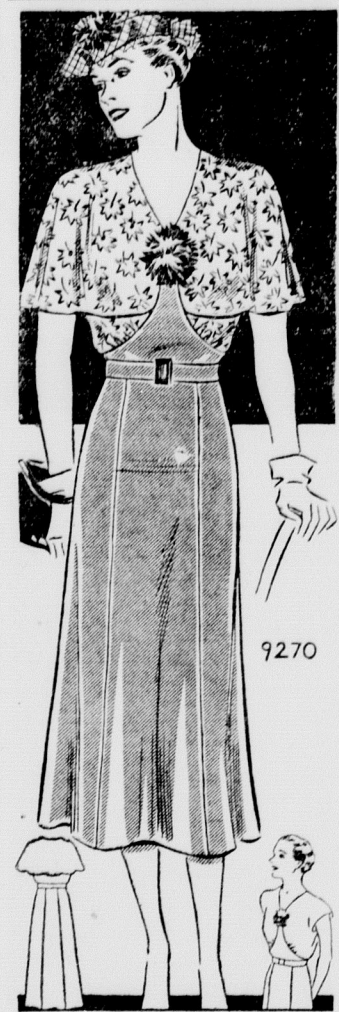

"Ridiculous as it may seem, there still is a kernel of probability in the allegation," she warned. "Hog-Fence" Needed

Mrs. Valley gave greatest emphasis of her discussion of new publications to Major General Johnson Hagood's new book, "We Can Defend America." She declared it to be the "only practical plan for defending our country and keeping it out of war" that she has encountered.

She was in hearty accord with the general's program that the United States should have a navy second to none, that it should have the strongest of shore defenses, a small but very efficient air force, and a small national army for patrol work, and a definite policy of non-aggression.

"Our present form of defense is like a farmer knowing a hog will go into his corn patch, and being all ready to lasso it and drag it out, after the corn has been damaged. Any farmer with sense

Your Baby Book

By BETTY COX

Two little girls very much in the world news today are Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, princesses royal of Great Britain, and daughters of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, who are to be crowned tomorrow in London.

As crown princess of the realm, 11-year-old Elizabeth, more familiarly known as Lilybet, has been fitted to her own little crown and has been rehearsing dutifully for her part in the pomp and splendor which will mark tomorrow's festivities.

Golden-haired, with short, naturally curly bobs, the two small girls look like both their royal father and their royal mother, Elizabeth perhaps a little more like her mother.

Unspoiled and more or less unconscious of the importance of their position in England today, much of the loyalty and love of Britain's people centers around these little girls, one of whom may some day be queen.

Two little Santa Ana boys, one of whom qualifies as ruler of the week by virtue of having a birthday anniversary last Sunday, are Billy and David Bear, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bear of 1946 West Bishop street.

Billy, the birthday boy, was three on Sunday, and he celebrated at a birthday dinner his mother and dad gave for him with his grandpa and grandma, the D. A. Bears of Santa Ana, as guests.

Billy is a blond with big blue eyes and David has reddish blond hair, also with blue eyes.

They love the outdoors, and Billy, who had bronchial pneumonia for three weeks last February, is spending most of his time out in the sunshine absorbing the right kind of vitamins to build him up again.

One of their best pals is their little bulldog, "Chubby," just a pup but able to hold his own in the strenuous games he plays with the two little boys. They are also very fond of the pigeons that Dad is raising in the backyard.

Bill likes to ride his tricycle, and Dave, who has walked since he was 11 months of age, can sit on the seat of the velocipede and will be riding as soon as his legs are long enough to reach the pedals.

Even better than his tricycle, though, Bill likes to ride his father's tractor and help with the ranching which he plans to do when he grows up. Both boys are fond of machinery and horses, and would build a fence around that corn, the very first thing!

"If our navy were built reasonably, like a fencer, our army would be much smaller, according to Gen. Hagood," Mrs. Valley continued. "We don't have to take it for granted that an enemy is going to enter our country, every."

She recommended for interesting reading a book called "Why Was Lincoln Murdered?" by Otto Eischenhalm, which she classified as the best mystery that has appeared. Absolutely authentic in its evidence and sources, the book presents every angle of what was really the greatest mystery ever to happen, and remain unsolved, in the United States.

Other excellent non-fiction she touched on included "A Vermont Boyhood," by Thomas Emerson Ripley; "A Woman Surgeon," by Rosalie Slaughter Morton, who is a surgeon of great note; "Army Without Banners," by Ernie O. Malley, outstanding Irish writer; "My India," written by Lillian Luker Ashby, who comes of four generations of India-Bred English people; and "Denmark Kingdom of Reason," by Agnes Rothery, a stimulating presentation of that country's every aspect.

For fiction reading, three novels were classed as good, "The Outward Room," by Millen Brand; "St. George of Wolden," by Robert Rylee; and "Buckskin Breches," the "finest thing yet written by Phil Stong."

Unanimous ballot was cast yesterday afternoon by Santa Ana Valley Ebell club, naming Mrs. W. S. Thompson to the presidency for the coming year. With her will serve Mrs. J. E. Paul, Mrs. Roy Shafer, Mrs. Hugh Shields, and Mrs. C. E. Brainer as vice-presidents; Mrs. Ralph Snedley as curator, Mrs. R. C. Korff as recording secretary, and Miss Mabel McFadden as treasurer.

A directors' board will be comprised of Mrs. R. C. Holmes, Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth, Mrs. W. D. Ranney, Mrs. Stanley Reinhaus, Mrs. Ellis Diehl, and Mrs. Brad Heila.

Upon request of the president, Mrs. J. E. Paul gave a most interesting and complete account of the recently held county convention at Huntington Beach.

The meeting was closed with announcement that Brother Leo of St. Mary's college would appear before the club May 24, and with presentation of Mrs. Valley, after whose lecture was served a delightful tea.

In charge of this final social session in the Peacock room were members of the public affairs committee, Mrs. R. G. Tutthill, Mrs. B. H. Sharpless, Mrs. Roy Shafer, Mrs. W. V. McCormac, and Mrs. C. F. Smith.

SEVENTY-TWO AT MOTHERS' DAY PICNIC

Three mothers were honored guests at the big family picnic out in Jack Fisher park on Mothers' Day, when children, grandchildren, great grandchildren and other relatives to the number of 72 gathered to observe the day.

The guests of honor were Mrs. Hannah Huntington, who came to Santa Ana in 1885; Mrs. Alice Perry, a resident of the city since 1901; and Mrs. Ben Chubbie, who came to California in 1887 and who has lived in Santa Ana since 1901.

Baskets and bouquets of spring flowers decorated the long table at which the family crowd found places, and conversation and reminiscences filled up the afternoon with pleasure for relatives, many of whom had not seen each other for 25 or 30 years.

One of the sons-in-law of Mrs. Chubbie, a Scotchman by the name of Frank Knight, from Wilmar, entertained the others with bagpipe selections.

Fullerton, Long Beach, Alhambra, Los Angeles, El Monte, Wilmar, Burbank, Chino, Costa Mesa, Santa Ana, Tustin, Irvine, Redding, Garden Grove, Anaheim were the towns represented in the gathering.

Children of the three mothers who participated in the gathering were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Huntington of Chino, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Slaback, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gerken, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Ross, and Mrs. Helen Tedford, of Santa Ana, and Mrs. Mont Jackson of Fullerton, children of Mrs. Huntington; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chubbie of Burbank, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chubbie of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Chubbie of El Monte, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Chubbie of Alhambra, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Knight of Wilmar, and Miss Edith Chubbie of Santa Ana, sons and daughters of Mrs. Chubbie, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Palmer of Irvine, daughter and son-in-law of Mrs. Perry.

Leo Huntington of San Gabriel, another son of Mrs. Huntington, was not able to be present, his own family having planned a party in honor of his birthday anniversary, which was also on Sunday.

Mrs. Huntington and Mrs. Perry are sisters and Mrs. Chubbie is their cousin.

GIRL RESERVES AND TRI-Y'S IN FUN NIGHTS

Willard and Lathrop ninth grade Girl Reserve clubs took over Saturday evening for social activities, the latter holding their "play night" in the Y. W. C. A. rooms and the Lathrop group having a party at the home of Miss Patricia Flaherty, 902 South Broadway.

The latter invited young gentlemen friends to their scavenger hunt and informal dance, making up a party of thirty and serving punch and cookies during the evening. Spring flowers made a pretty setting in the Flaherty home where Miss Margaret Fine, the club leader, was assisted by her sister, Miss Helen Fine, and by Mr. and Mrs. Flaherty.

Willard ninth graders and their friends danced in the big Y. W. C. A. hall to Don Randall's music. Mrs. A. Crawford and Mrs. J. O. Gullede chaperoned the group, and Miss Mary Porter assisted Miss Wylie Anderson, the club leader, in the entertaining.

The Tri-Y's went to camp for a few hours last night, taking their picnic suppers and going by truck up to the Boy Scout camp at Irvine.

Hiking and horseback riding before supper whetted their appetites, and a typical campfire program around the fire, with singing led by Miss Clara Spelman, followed.

Accompanying the girls were Miss Mary Porter, Girl Reserve executive secretary, Miss Mary Schaffel, Miss Margaret Fine, and Miss Spelman.

Parlor Fetes Pioneer Women

No gesture more appropriate to a celebration of Mother's Day could be imagined than that which has come to be an annual event of the Native Daughters of the Golden West in Santa Ana, for once each year they pay honor to the Pioneer Mothers of Orange county.

Their list of pioneer women includes those who have made their home near Santa Ana for 40 years or more, who have been present during the greatest stages of growth of the community, and whose influence has been responsible for that growth.

Yesterday afternoon half a hundred such pioneers were entertained with a tea and program by the Native Daughters in the educational building of the First Christian church. Lovely flowers everywhere and soft music made a pleasant background for the cordial atmosphere of reminiscence which pervaded the hall.

Outstanding pioneers were Mrs. Clara McPherson Jones, who has lived in Santa Ana longer than any other woman—65 years; Mrs. Elizabeth McLeod, the oldest pioneer woman living—92 years; and Mrs. Margaret Bittle of Orange, only surviving 49er in Orange county.

Beautiful bouquets were presented these three women by their hostesses and each gave an interesting talk. General chairman of the Native Daughters, under Mrs. W. A. Mize, their president, included Mrs. Muriel Gray, decorator, Mrs. Rose Ford, refreshments; Mrs. Mildred Wheeler, programs; and Mrs. Florence Watson, invitations.

Pioneers invited included the Mesdames Agnes Collum, Ida Curry, May Beard, Earl Glenn, Effie Umstad, Katherine Clark, Margaret Bittle, Sweeney, Nellie Munger, Melissa Zimmerman, Amanda Greenleaf, Nellie Young, Laura Keseman, John Ryan, Lydia Smart, A. M. Cox, A. Phillips, Franzen, Rebecca Beeman, Alice Kryhl, Rose Young, Jessen, Tremblay, and others.

The Mesdames Tillie Mosser, Tedford, Walter Fine, B. Walbridge, Harvey, Elizabeth McLeod, M. H. Eckhardt, J. T. Raitt, Hannah Huntington, Cora Ross, Gertrude Lamb, Ben Blee, Carrie Flagg, Stafford, Thomas, Grigsby, Clark, Parris, Salter, DuBois, Hannah Kerr, Mary Parker, Bruce, Emma Harvey, Bridgeford, Adeline Pleasant, Miss Minnie Young, and Miss Lute Lyman. Mrs. Noel Berry was a special guest.

Y. L. I. GIRLS HONOR MOTHERS AT BREAKFAST

After receiving Communion together at 8:30 mass on Mother's Day, 30 members of the Junior Y. L. I. and their mothers went to the parish hall where the daughters honored their mothers at a breakfast.

Colors of the Junior Institute—blue and white—were carried out in the flowers on the beautiful tables and in the tapers which alternated with the French bouquets.

On the program were a reading by Peggy Johnson, a song by the girls, words of welcome by the Rev. Father Timothy Galvin, and short addresses by Mrs. Robert Sandon, past director, and Mrs. U. J. Engelman, present director and general chairman of the event.

Cecelia Telet, president, introduced her successor, Mary Towler, and the other new officers elected at the meeting last Saturday afternoon.

These are, besides Miss Towler, Betty Vosskuhl, vice-president; Hortense Taylor, secretary; Betty Mae Engelman, treasurer; Yvonne Sackerson, marshal; Carolyn Borchard, musician; Helen Osterkamp, sentinal.

The monthly social meeting will be held Monday, May 24, from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. at the home of Marilyn Maag, 213 East Washington avenue. Co-hostesses with Marilyn will be Mary Markel and Helen Osterkamp.

The Bradleys spent the weekend in Los Angeles with Miss Antoine, who visited here last October and who will return soon for other concert and radio engagements on the West coast.

Both young people are prominent in beach city and Santa Ana circles, since both have made their homes with their parents at Balboa island and Costa Mesa.

Their wedding occurred in the presence of just a few friends and relatives in the church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel at Balboa, with the Rev. Father Berry officiating.

The pretty bride wore a frock of white crepe with a bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley, and was attended by Miss Elizabeth Doyle, who was outfitted in powder blue crepe. Mr. Strain gave his daughter in marriage, and Lilone Charlie attended the groom.

After a wedding breakfast at Daniger's, the couple left on a Catalina honeymoon, after which they will make their home at 235 Monterey drive, Laguna Beach.

Fun to Read Palms Easy to Know How

In no time you can know enough palmistry to read your palm and your friends' palms, too. And how they love it!

See the Heart Line running across the top of your palm? If it branches where it starts, much love comes your way. If you've a little horizontal line close to the Heart Line where it ends—you'll probably marry early. But a break on the little line implies a separation some day.

Luck? A star on your palm says fortune has her eye on you. Money? A strongly developed third finger promises plenty of it. But beware! Don't contradict a lad with a very long second finger. He's a Saturnian and must be "yessed." As for the girl with wide spaces between her fingers—be cagy, she's much too curious.

Easy to remember these and other pointers in our 32-page booklet on palmistry. Fun at parties, picnics, evenings at home. Send 10c for your copy of Secrets of Palmistry to The Journal Home Service, 117 East Fifth street, Santa Ana, Cal.

TWO HOSTESSES COMPLIMENT SANTA MONICAN

A charming courtesy to a former Santa Ana, Mrs. Lester Evans (Bernice Miles) who now makes her home in Santa Monica, was a party given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Harry Pickard and Mrs. Harry D. Edwards.

The home of the former was abloom with lovely flowers, some from her own garden and some sent from the gardens of Mrs. Ed Redford. A high white stork was perched jauntily on one foot on the dining-room table, surveying a pile of daintily wrapped gifts brought by the guests for Mrs. Evans.

Little pink cribs filled with nuts and mints centered each dessert table to carry out the motif of the day and pretty prizes for games went to Mrs. V. L. Brown and Mrs. John Kemper.

Guests included the Mesdames B. L. Lang, Mary Fisher, V. L. Brown, Dean Laub, Fannie Reeves, Ed Redford, Ellen Crotty, John Chazy, Charles Spurrer, Al Jones, George Morgan, James Wylie, Miss Olga Wood and Miss Jessie Mae Miles of Santa Ana; Mrs. Leo Payne and Mrs. Eugene Riches of Costa Mesa, Mrs. A. B. Fogg, Mrs. Earl Gaddis and Mrs. John Kemper of Anaheim, Mrs. B. L. Chittenden of Brea and Miss Genevieve Evans of Los Angeles.

PRUDENCE PENNY IS SHOW FEATURE

Packed with household hints, the film shows Prudence Penny in a series of unusual home demonstrations.

Mary Stoddard "Sponging Boy Friend" May Be Better Associate for Daughter Than Others

By MARY STODDARD

Letters are still coming in answer to "Perplexed Mother" and her problem of her daughter's "sponging boy friend." The mother, in her letter, complained of the expense which fell the lot of the family to entertain the boy friend who is of good character, has a nice car and a fine position, but who never takes her daughter out to places that cost money and never brings anything more than an occasional package of gum to the home on his daily visits.

Two answers arrived today, both with the same thought, that the daughter is better off with a nice boy, who may have thoughtlessness as a flaw in his character, than trying to keep up with a fast crowd. Their letters follow:

Dear Miss Stoddard: In answer to the "Perplexed Mother" about her daughter's sponging boy friend.

Why not let daughter choose her own company as long as she is keeping away from young men who use intoxicating liquor?

My dear, I have been in charge of many girls' schools and have also heard many mothers complain. But it is usually about their girls going with a fast crowd. Never have I heard any complain the other way.

If you really cannot afford to have this young man as a dinner guest so much, just don't serve any food and tell your daughter beforehand that you will not, and she will soon take the hint. I think it will mean much more to you to have an honest, sweet and true daughter than one who is trying to keep up with a fast crowd.

I am sure you are a fine mother and have a nice daughter, so try to keep her confidence and this trouble will iron itself out in time. EXPERIENCED.

Dear Miss Stoddard: I read "Perplexed Mother's" query about her 19-year-old daughter's sponging boy friend.

It sounded so much like the same trouble I had with my daughter two years ago that I wanted to write to that mother and tell her not to be too harsh with her daughter.

My daughter's boy friend didn't take her out very much and spent a great deal of time at our home doing the things that this mother complained about.

Well, I talked and scolded and finally my daughter started going with another boy who took her out more.

Also, if I had only kept my peace about the first young man she would be alive today. She was killed in an automobile accident caused by drunken driving. Sincerely,

HEARTBROKEN MOTHER.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS OF CHURCH FETED

Miniature Maypoles with streamers added their color to a profusion of spring flowers which brightened the tables at which mothers and daughters gathered for their annual banquet last Friday evening in the Church of the Brethren.

Mrs. Theron Cooney, president, presented Mrs. Fred Butterbaugh as toastmistress, and a toast to mothers was given by Ruth Ellen Dunlap and one to the mothers by Mrs. Byrl Harper.

Wilbur, on the subject, "We—Mothers and Daughters."

One of the most essential things for success is the art of getting along with people, according to Mrs. Wilbur, who is a specialist in the field of personality adjustment and vocational guidance.

New Machine Helps Cure 'Incurables'

By C. N. CHRISMAN, M. D.

If you haven't seen or read about the "Fever Machine" you are behind the times. During the six years since the mechanism for inducing artificial fever came into experimental use, a great advance has been made in the control of specific ailments thought incurable up to that time. Its chief field is in the treatment of venereal diseases. That line of infection is perhaps the most perplexing of all the problems that defy the public health authorities.

The results started many experiments which were promptly tried in America. It was soon learned that it wasn't the type of fever which was curative; it was the abnormal heating up of the body tissues—the fever itself—that worked the miracle.

At first electric blankets and simple hot boxes were used with very good results, but the accidents resulting when some electrical contraption got out of control were lamentable.

This brings us to the heart of the problem. That is the entirely new type of nursing required in this field of diathermy fever. Doctors which must have a very exact and dependable knowledge of engineering.

GAINES

Last week in Orange county two weekly newspapers changed hands. At San Juan Capistrano William A. Maxwell took over the Coastline Dispatch, with Former Editor Verner Beck now writing his columns for Chillum. Maxwell was publisher and editor before Beck took over the sheet about a year ago.

And at Tustin Clyde Simmons took over the Tustin News, replacing F. H. Fowler as editor. Readers of the two sheets have lost two good editors and have gained two good ones.

In the Tustin paper Clyde has started a new column, "Shirt Sleeves," which threatens to be very readable. In clipping some of it, which shows just about what the editor thinks of editing a weekly. And he should know something about the business!

Here, for your benefit, is part of the first "Shirt Sleeves": To me, at least, conduct of a newspaper calls for some place within the sheet where the impersonality of news columns and the editorial "I" pronoun can be abandoned. Both are all right in their respective places. Through use of neither can one shed formality and get down to cases just as though reader and writer were talking face to face. Hence this column and its infelicitous informal title. Through this medium I hope to be able, as the weeks and months slip away, to express my sometimes peculiar viewpoint and to talk things over without taking refuge in the frequently safer retreat of the editorial, or of news so written as to infer something that would be more clearly said in the first person.

It's been my privilege to edit several country weeklies in California. I've also done—and am still doing—a good deal of reporting for daily papers. I've also acted as the help of a daily publication and managed not to wreck it. So if I appear dogmatic at times, set it down to a peculiarity of the craft, and to the fact that the editor, as a class, is a group very jealous of rights and privileges, real or fancied.

Really editing is a hard row to hoe. If one is cautious or conservative, hesitant about expressing opinions until one is absolutely convinced of their soundness, one is immediately dubbed coward. "Fraidy cat," the youngsters used to say. If one smashes into a situation, expressing opinions first and investigating afterwards, one is dubbed radical, sensationalist or just plain goat. Invariably one tends to make enemies. Yet newspaper support is much sought after, and properly so. When it is withheld, or turned into opposition, the opponent doesn't reason about it. He immediately concludes that yes, he needs squelching and sets about to accomplish that job.

The best attitude, I have discovered, is to follow the dictates of conscience, tempering those dictates sometimes with whatever business acumen one possesses and leave the rest to the inherent fairness of the reader. Fortunately people in the mass are usually quite fair. I don't know why—or how. They are, thank God! And they appreciate square shooting.

In another weekly paper, I'm attacked again. And I gain another member for the Society for Prevention of a Picture at the Top of this Page. It is, if I'm not mistaken, Mark Sarchet, Brea Progress pencil pusher, who comes out strongly against the picture and against me in general.

He claims that, in this department, I run false news when it's snowing and skiing stories when it's time to go fishing.

But he fails to explain what's become of the Brea Yacht club, which was formed when all vacant lots were lakes in Brea and Doc Glenn Curtis was reported to have been brushing up on his plain and fancy fly casting in preparation for a fishing derby thereon.

I'll consider his beef about my fishing and skiing news when he clears up the status of that club!

Reason for Action By Elementary Heads

ORANGE.—Fourteen teachers in the city of Orange are going to lose their jobs. This announcement was made at a meeting of the elementary school board last night, when members said that a general cutting down of the teaching staff is anticipated until the state quota of 26 for the city system is reached. Orange now has 40 elementary instructors. Simultaneously, board members announced a five-per-cent increase in pay for all teachers. This will effect only 37 during the coming year, as three teachers will not return for the opening of school next year, it was announced.

Abolishment of the art department for the system was announced, with the contract of Miss Lois Wheeler not renewed. Mrs. Bertha Dittus, who teaches the fourth and fifth grades at Cypress school, was granted a year's leave of absence and Miss Emily Seaman, fifth grade teacher at the Center street school, is retiring, it was announced.

Gradual elimination of surplus members of the teaching staff is planned, board members said, as enrollment has decreased from year to year during the past seven years. There are only five grades in the elementary system, with sixth, seventh and eighth grade students handled at the intermediate school.

Two members of the board, whose terms expire next month, will not run for reelection. It was announced. William Feldner, board chairman and Mrs. Ed Ehlert, will not file for the board race, they said. R. C. Patton, clerk, is the only remaining member. C. I. Thomas is superintendent.

BACHELOR
by Kathryn Culver

The late Marcus Trent of Miami, Florida, has left a million dollars to his nephew, Rodney Burton, provided he is unmarried when he reaches twenty-five. Otherwise the money is to go to a society headed by the unscrupulous J. Montrose Pettigrew. In accordance with Trent's wishes, Rodney, out at Gunnison, Colorado, is not informed of his nephew's death, nor of the terms of the will. Pettigrew, to get his hands on the money, hires Sara Saunders, night-club dancer, to go to Gunnison and maneuver Rodney into marriage before his twenty-fifth birthday, a month away. Judging that he is a millionaire, Pettigrew anticipates this scheme and dispatches his secretary, Judy Collins, to Gunnison to prevent Rodney from marrying.

CHAPTER VIII
GUNNISON, Colorado, is situated in what is roughly the center of a vast bowl. The sides of the bowl are serrated mountain ranges towering to dizzy heights. The lower slopes are rich grazing land, and the fertile valley is slashed by the turbulent Gunnison River.

East of Gunnison, the mountain peaks rise most sharply and to the greatest height, forming the backbone of America, the great Continental Divide. On the western slope of the Divide, are rugged fastnesses which few men have penetrated. Here are awesome vistas of beauty, breathtaking in their immensity—the majestic grandeur of the peaks, the precipitous, flinging their spray against huge boulders worn smooth by centuries of such play, gurgling swiftly downward to heavily wooded slopes.

On the bank of such a stream, Rodney Burton and Jim Matthews had erected a sturdy log cabin. For two happy years now they had lived there, lazily content to let the world pass them by while they discovered the secret of contentment which eludes so many men who fretfully pursue riches of fame in the hurly-burly of the cities.

MEETING at the Colorado School of Mines at Boulder where Jim had been working toward his degree in mining engineering, and Rodney had been doing some postgraduate study on the subject of Primitive and Prehistoric Artifacts, they had been drawn together by an immediate liking from which an indissoluble friendship had been forged.

Their present design for living had resulted from long evenings spent lounging in each other's rooms, during the course of which Rodney had disclosed his determination to make a life study of the stone implements in use upon the North American continent before the white man came; and Jim had admitted that his greatest ambition was to hunt for gold in the higher reaches of the Rockies.

Rodney possessed of a small income from his parents' estate, had suggested that they join forces and venture together into the wilderness, where each could pursue his own work without the perplexities and worries of what both considered a too-civilized world.

Jim—lacking money and family ties, and facing a world in economic chaos which offered little opportunity to a new engineering graduate—had not hesitated to accept Rodney's offer to finance his prospecting venture.

THREE FACE
JUDGE AT ANAHEIM

ANAHEIM.—Two of the three persons arrested for driving while intoxicated here over the week-end pleaded guilty when they appeared before City Judge Frank Tausch yesterday morning. The third was found to be a minor and was remanded to juvenile authorities.

Those arrested were Merletheth Watt, 28, Los Angeles; Frank Lucero, 37, 317 West Santa Ana street, Anaheim, and Jose Torres, 17, 1134 1/2 Swan street, Anaheim. Rathey declined to file hit-and-run charges. Lucero was ordered to pay a fine of $100 or spend 50 days in jail and his operator's license was revoked. Watt had no operator's license.

to care for them both in the simple life they planned. Jim had considered the money a sort of grub stake, and had insisted that Rodney was financing himself.

On the bank of such a stream, Rodney Burton and Jim Matthews had erected a sturdy log cabin. For two happy years now they had lived there, lazily content to let the world pass them by while they discovered the secret of contentment which eludes so many men who fretfully pursue riches of fame in the hurly-burly of the cities.

At the same time, the region had appeared no less promising. Each day added something new to the collection, and each evening found a few more pages in his notebook covered with notes and symbols intelligible only to himself.

For two years, both men had been supremely happy, pursuing their separate explorations contentedly, sharing each other's enthusiasms.

True, Jim Matthews had not yet discovered the rich gold lode he sought, but dozens of abandoned prospect holes attested to his unflinching faith. Each new claim he staked was a challenge to him. Each abandoned claim made him more sure the next would be the one he sought.

Rodney, too, was making slow progress in his work, but bushel baskets of treasured relics were ranged along one side of the cabin. Each day added something new to the collection, and each evening found a few more pages in his notebook covered with notes and symbols intelligible only to himself.

Which brings us to one morning late in June when those forces that rule the lives of men decided that Rodney's and Jim's self-created isolation should be abruptly shattered.

Jim was placing a charge of dynamite in his newest prospect hole, and Rodney was exploring a rocky ledge below where Jim was working. A blue haze hung over the broad valley below them—a shifting haze that clothed the valley in mystery. Above, the white-armored ramparts of the Continental Divide were touched to colorful splendor by the flaming javelins of the morning sun. A scene of incomparable serenity and beauty painted by the master hand of God, undefiled by man.

Indeed, civilization's only intrusion upon the panorama was the twisting line of the narrow-gauge railroad leading into the valley over the Divide.

At this very moment, high upon the slope above the cabin, smoke plumed upward from the valliant little engine of the train which daily made the trip into the valley. Still too far away to be heard, its descending course was marked only by the winding trail of smoke.

The two men, accustomed to the daily appearance of the train, paid it no particular heed. There was nothing to warn them that this day was set apart from other days in their lives.

NAME KUCHEL ATTORNEY FOR H. B.

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Thomas Kuchel, member of the state legislature from the 75th assembly district, and law partner of City Attorney Lawrence B. Brown, was named city attorney of Huntington Beach by the council at an adjourned meeting here last night.

Kuchel aided the city council in its fight before the legislature to obtain for this city a share of the royalty from the state tide-land pool.

The council, by a three-to-two vote, recently dismissed City Attorney Ray Overacker. Under the new charter, adopted here by a small majority of 37 votes, there is a provision that stipulates that any attorney must have been a resident of this city for two years before he can be appointed city attorney. As there is no attorney other than the one dismissed who can qualify, the council decided to name a city attorney before the legislature passes on the new charter.

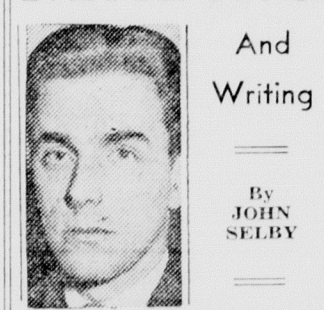

The office in this city carries a salary of $125 a month, with an allowance of $10 a month toward office rent or stenographer salary.

Lawyers of Sydney, N. S. W., have asked by Father P. Murphy, prominent Catholic clergyman, to "refuse to have hand, act, or part in divorce proceedings."

READING

And Writing
By JOHN SELBY

"KING EDWARD VIII: AN INTIMATE BIOGRAPHY," by Hector Bolitho; (Lippincott; $3).

The first thing one does with books which concern the British royal family is to clear away the dreadful sludge which usually covers them. It is, apparently, impossible for the average British writer to speak of the royal family without using words, and quoting incidents, which even they would consider revolting if used in connection with an ordinary person.

So first use the hose on Hector Bolitho's "King Edward VIII." Then read it as not a particularly brilliant, but acceptable biography of a pleasant enough chap. It will not entertain you very much, but there is a good deal of useful information in it.

"Hindsight" is the best part of the book is what Mr. Bolitho says about the former king as a boy and young man. He later grew more insensible to Edward's charm, but in the earlier pages he does it justice. The worst thing in the book is Mr. Bolitho's shocking reliance on hindsight.

Now Mr. Bolitho is able to see how, in what he calls Edward's final battle of his life as king, his judgment "failed." If all the things which were apparent to Mr. Bolitho after the abdication were apparent before, he was guilty of something close to treason in his failure to apprise the British empire of them.

George Worried

Mr. Bolitho does not approve at all that running around the former king did as prince of Wales. Good King George and good Queen Mary were worried about it, too, which may just possibly have influenced Mr. Bolitho's judgment a bit. One gains the impression from "King Edward VIII" that all Edward's interest in social justice, the slums, the starving miners and the former soldiers was just something annoying the man thought up to torture poor George and his ministers with.

Mr. Bolitho also soft pedals Edward's success as a landlord, and absolutely ignores the fact that the former king may have had a perfectly good plan of his own for the country. Lastly, and this with several "take" under the breath, there were those naughty Americans all around him—

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—Furthering plans to provide mooring space in greater Newport Harbor for the world's largest yachts, members of the city council met to meet with the harbor development committee of the Newport Harbor chamber of commerce today.

Mayor Harry Williamson said he would call the special meeting to permit Capt. William J. Brown and his chamber of commerce committee to confer with the city officials on plans to utilize the city-owned 2200-feet of frontage in the county channel as a mooring site for palatial pleasure craft.

Appointed to the chamber of commerce committee by Theo. Robins, president, were L. H. Wallace and L. W. Briggs to assist Capt. Brown in the major development scheme.

Many owners of large yachts already have asked for moorings here, according to records of Harbormaster T. J. Bonchey. Joe Schenk, Hollywood picture company president, wants to bring his new yacht "Caroline" here, it was understood.

Others also desire the clean waters and exclusive moorings at the features of Newport Bay for the better protection and safety of their expensive big boats, Capt. Brown said.

Mayor Williamson promised that everything would be done to promote the requested moorings at the earliest possible time. R. L. Patterson, city engineer, was expected to survey the proposed site immediately in preparation for submitting plans of necessary work to be done.

Veteran Racer, 55, Drives 500 miles With 82 Average

INDIANAPOLIS.—It took a silver haired, 55-year-old veteran of the roaring road to portray dramatically the progress of the automobile industry in the last quarter of a century.

Ralph DePalma returned to the scene of his own exploits at the Indianapolis motor speedway yesterday to drive 500 miles at an average of 82.18 miles an hour in an ordinary stock car (La Salle V-8), the one to be used as pace-maker for the annual race May 31. DePalma's run was not simply a final gesture from a grizzled veteran who insists he is through with racing. His drive was designed solely to show the progress automobile manufacturers have made since the original race in 1911.

He is an instructor in the Phoenix Union High school.

After spending the summer in Mexico and the southern states, the couple will be at home in Phoenix.

Ab Jenkins Drives 'Special' While Not on Salt Flats

SALT LAKE CITY. (P)—What does the world's top automobile endurance driver, Ab Jenkins, do when he's not record-busting on Utah's famed Bonneville salt flats?

Often he drives an understanding special job (Cord) that looks like a movie star's. He doesn't look unlike a movie star himself.

When not doing that, Jenkins may be overseeing real estate, touring, or working at Connersville, Ind. His shiny road car, with enough gadgets on the dashboard to outfit an airplane, bears no ordinary nameplate.

"Ab Jenkins Special" reads the script across it nose.

PENNEY CHIEF TEACHERS GET AT CONCLAVE MORE PAY

Santa Ana school teachers will have $21,712 more to put into circulation next year. The board of education last night granted a three and one-half per cent average salary increase. Auditor Harold Yost submitted a revised budget with some larger salaries, which will increase school expenditures by the $21,712 figure.

The board also approved a new salary schedule for the year 1937-1938, which will require an added item in the budget of approximately $6000 annually.

In this schedule there are certain "hurdles" which teachers must leap before they can qualify for the next salary boost. These hurdles, consisting of additional professional study, are graded after the fourth, seventh and tenth years of service. In other words, in order to qualify for increases at these points, teachers must show evidence of completing the required additional study.

NEW YORK. (P)—With rails furnishing the motive power, selected stocks today put on a crawling rally for a while, only to meet further selling pressure in the final run.

Buying was sluggish throughout, and the ticker tape found little work to do most of the day.

The list extended Monday's setback fractions to 2 or more points at the opening. Support soon appeared, and losses were reduced or canceled. Advances were held well up to the last lap. There was a wide assortment of minus signs at the close. Prices follow:

CORONATION ...

Several crowns will be used in George VI's coronation ceremony tomorrow, but St. Edward's Crown is the real coronation crown. Yet, strange as it seems, the king will not wear it! It is too heavy.

"LEFTY" GROVE ...

Run over the histories of baseball's leading players and you'll find that practically all of them were tossed the horseshoe around before they spat out the last of their baby teeth. "Lefty" Grove, Boston Red Sox pitcher, is one outstanding exception. Strange as it seems, he didn't touch a baseball until he was 19!

A glass-blower in his home town of Lomax, Md., he was thrown out of work by a strike. With nothing to occupy his time, he took up sand-lot baseball, developed into a semi-pro first baseman and then shot to the big leagues and fame as a pitcher.

Tomorrow: The Queen of Queens.

THE WEATHERMAN'S PREDICTION AVERAGE IS STILL PERFECT. HE PREDICTED NO RAIN FOR WEEKS.

Dear Judge: Did it ever fail to rain as soon as a fellow takes down the top on his roadster?

BERT G.

No rain fell the day that Alvaro MacGoosegrease took down his top last summer. Alvaro didn't get wet--all he got was sunstroke.

So that motorist photographers will not make a "mistake" in what they snap, Japanese authorities have prepared maps of fortified zones which will be supplied to touring and shipping agencies and hung in hotels and railway stations.

Tighter Ban Needed On Immigration

WITH 8000 aliens living illegally in Orange county, citizens of this area already have a fairly graphic and painful mental picture of the fat slice of public funds which goes each year to provide these unwanted guests with relief, education, medical care and other special governmental services.

So it is not likely that Secretary of State Hull will find much sympathy here for his opposition to a drastic tightening in the immigration laws.

We have had personal experiences in how the "melting pot" works in the Southern California farm belt, with its problems of racial adjustment and unemployment; and we aren't disposed to pay serious heed to Secretary Hull's objection that tighter immigration laws would upset President Roosevelt's "good neighbor" policy.

Here is a brief outline of the Reynolds-Starnes bill which Mr. Hull doesn't like:

Cut immigration from quota nations by 90 per cent. Put immigration from Canada and Latin-American nations on a quota basis, limited to 10 per cent of those that entered the United States from each country in 1930.

Authorize reciprocal agreements of the Western Hemisphere nations to permit as many of their citizens to enter this country as Americans emigrate to them annually.

Require registration and fingerprinting of all aliens now in the United States, with provisions that they must report all their moves to the Department of Labor.

Empower the President to deport any alien or class of aliens whose presence he considered inimical to the United States, and require mandatory deportation of any alien on relief for more than six months.

Require mandatory deportation of aliens convicted of any crime carrying a penalty of a year or more in prison, espionage or carrying concealed weapons.

Permit the labor department to delay deportation in certain "hardship" cases for one year, but report to Congress on each case.

What is wrong about that? Most citizens will view those measures with approval, we believe, especially those who realize what an enormous cost Southern California has actually paid for so-called "cheap" labor.

Furthermore, how would the "good neighbor" policy be upset in any way by making it against the law for an alien to receive relief for more than six months? Can an American citizen get relief, or even a job, in Canada or Mexico?

The Reynolds-Starnes bill is the result of experience and careful study. Opposition of Secretary Hull indicates that the Tennessee gentleman is not as familiar with border state problems as he should be.

Floyd Gibbons will have to talk fast to explain that suit by a scenario writer over broadcasting an on-the-spot flood description.

Success To King George VI

IN THE multi-million dollar crowning of King George VI tomorrow, this hard-bitten old world will witness one of the most pompous and glittering spectacles that history offers—the coronation of a new ruler for the millions of subjects to the British throne.

With its pageantry, its ceremonies steeped in ancient tradition, its prancing princes and potentates from abroad, its gold coaches, uniformed soldiers, top-hatted diplomats and cheering multitudes, the coronation is almost like a scene from the land of make-believe.

In a way, it is make-believe for King George VI; because if he should really try to rule the British empire according to the ritualistic orders of the coronation, he speedily would bump into the stone wall of parliament and the powers-that-be which got rid of his brother—headstrong Edward.

But the coronation has its real, substantial value for Britain. As the costliest and grandest show of the century, it is useful in impressing the colonies and in tying the dominions closer to the motherland. The throne is probably the strongest bond between London and the far-flung empire.

We of democratic America can look across the sea and comprehend the spiritual and commercial value of the coronation, although it does not fit in with our republican way of doing things.

And we wish George VI and the British empire the best of success and a speedy end to their internal and international troubles. Long live the King!

Just 10 years ago Lindbergh left California to fly the Atlantic and it looks like he'll never hear the last of it.

Give The People Light

A SALUTE to Supervisor Steele Finley for his determination to place all the facts concerning the important flood control and water conservation bond issue before the public.

The people are entitled to know everything about the project. After all, they are furnishing the money, both for the federal and the county participation.

We also approve of Supervisor Finley's decision not to campaign on one side or the other. He hits the nail smack on the head with us when he says:

"I am not interested in arguing or debating this proposal, but I am interested in getting the facts before the people. All features of the flood control program will be discussed at these mass meetings and anyone who has questions to ask may do so."

The Journal heartily endorses that method of handling the water bond election.

Give the people light on the vital flood control and water conservation proposals and they will be able to reach a wise decision.

Irving Berlin's hit tune, "Slumming on Park Avenue," with its implication of grandeur, has done much to advertise the famous thoroughfare. Information clerks at terminals and hotels say it is the most-asked-about street of the moment. Strangers want to say they have seen it.

In other years the fashionable avenue was Fifth. People who are "address conscious" have in late years moved almost en masse from Fifth to Park. The building of the Waldorf and the Ritz tower on Park avenue was also a big boon to de luxe tenantry.

Just now Park is luxuriating in a ripple of new one-story shops. Many tall buildings have been torn down and replaced by modernistic Taj Mahals which house florists, perfume shops and dealers in rare jewels. The low buildings, of course, reduce taxes enormously.

The exclusive strip of Park avenue extends from 46th street to the 100th and then goes into a sudden drop and eventually trails off into depressing slums, crisscrossed with fire escapes hung with wet wash. Ending in a hodgepodge market for the very poor.

Midnight mystery which I saw you figure out: He came out of a Park avenue apartment house near the Waldorf togged in silk hat and white tie, hailed a taxi, rode a block, alighted and walked back to this address. Twenty minutes later he appeared at the curb in a business suit. A splendidous limousine drew up and glancing hurriedly up at a certain window he purred away. Indeed, there is much drama at night from a window on Park avenue.

At a hotel catered to by I saw something fairly froze my blood. Fifteen stories up a pajama clad figure had climbed onto a ledge, stood wavering a few sickening seconds and plunged to the sidewalk below.

It is rather astonishing how quickly a crowd congeals in a desolated New York street when visited by accident or tragedy at night. Such disasters bring out strange human specimens—suggesting those white wriggly things under old rocks—never seen save in such exigencies. Also one might believe there is a new photographer on every corner for they are often there before police.

The least known of the women celebrity husbands is Harrison Williams whose wife has garnered gobs of columns of newspaper space as America's best dressed woman. Rarely is Williams seen at the gay luncheon places, first nights and social resorts where his wife is such an enchanting figure. He is 64 and born of humble parents in a suburb of Cleveland, O. Most of his fortune came from participation in huge public utility enterprises. He is said to care little for society but enjoys rare good books.

Kin Hubbard once observed there were only two things at which one may politely point—Florida real estate and French pastry. Which is reminiscent of the upshot in popularity of French pastry in the past few years. It is now one of the most asked-for desserts in the tony restaurants. And there are artistic creations to delight the eye and tastes to please all palates. I am told that the most highly paid cooking artists are those who design the French pastry.

Sartorial slant: One of the social gossip writers reports that the only male diner not in evening dress at the Colony recently was George Jean Nathan. Incidentally, the Colony, snug and smooty, now has a change in preferred table positions. Formerly the elect were seated on the small front room. That is true today at the luncheon hour, but for dinner the favored are seated in the back room and away from staring hoi polloi.

I am flattered by this gracious note from the distinguished novelist Ellen Glasgow. "I have read your letter to Billy through a mist of sympathy. You have said what I feel for my Jeremy, a Sealyham, just eight years and four months old when he died. But do not say to Billy in the Heaven of Loyal to Billy in the Heaven of Loyal Hearts," which, like the Heaven of Jurgens' grandmother, must smell, I fancy, of mignonette—and perhaps spring in the woods."

The big decision facing the President when he returns to his desk Thursday is whether the time has come to make terms.

The decisions upholding the Washington minimum wage and Wagner labor laws, even though 5-to-4 decrees, unquestionably have dulled the edge of his attack on the supreme court. Privately,

Incidentally, this concern for "the boys" does not apply to Senators Burt Wheeler and Ed Burke. The two opposition generalissimos. The New Deal has definitely broken with them and will not lift a finger to bring them back into the fold.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Whether there is a compromise on the supreme court issue now rests with one man—President Roosevelt.

Administration leaders in congress are ready to make concessions on the proposal for six new justices. Several even believe, privately, that a compromise is necessary to pass any kind of a judicial bill, and what to them is more important, in order to avoid a dangerous rift in Democratic ranks.

However, if the President insists on standing pat, the leaders, like cool soldiers, will go down the line for him. But they would much rather make a deal with the opposition.

If the President would agree to reduce his demand to two additional justices, making a supreme court of 11, he could cut the ground from under his foes and his bill would skyrocket through the senate by an overwhelming majority. It is doubtful if the opposition could muster 30 votes against a two-judge proposal.

Without exception all the waverers and fence-sitters—McCarran of Nevada, O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Hatch of New Mexico, one of Washington, Nye and Frazier of North Dakota, Johnson of Colorado, would plump for such a plan. They are desperately anxious to get a way to line up with the President. To them compromise would be like manna from heaven.

ADAMANT—BUT
But up until the time of his departure, the President was adamant against any modification of his demands.

He was firmly convinced that he had the votes to win in the senate. It is significant, however, that White House intimates did not preclude the possibility of a compromise. They laid great emphasis on the fact that one thing the President was anxious to avoid, if at all possible, was a split in the Democratic party.

"We don't want to leave any unhealed wounds," one presidential confidant explained. "If it becomes necessary we may have to give ground to save the faces of some of the boys."

Incidentally, this concern for "the boys" does not apply to Senators Burt Wheeler and Ed Burke. The two opposition generalissimos. The New Deal has definitely broken with them and will not lift a finger to bring them back into the fold.

CANINE NUISANCES

To the Editor: This may not seem an important subject about which to write, but it is a problem to me and my neighbors. The subject concerns dogs; five in my yard today and seven in my neighbor's yard yesterday, and in that instance frightening a large, pet rabbit to death.

We all love dogs and some of us own dogs, but they on leash and not annoying other people. Now these dogs that call daily wear license tags and look well cared for and we don't want them hurt or impounded, but we would appreciate the owners keeping their pets at home. Our flowers are being trampled and several children were frightened by two playful terriers just the other day. Can't something be done to remedy this particular annoyance?

DOESN'T LIKE PEGLER

To the Editor: You probably know several hundred per cent more about running a newspaper than we do, but we can't quite figure out how you give front page space to the "Pegler" bunk. Anybody can rant and rave about the weaknesses and frailties of human beings.

It reminds us of the "Billy Sunday" type of so-called evangelism 30 or 40 years ago. Who is able to judge others as to what human experiences they should have?

If you feel you should publish Pegler's vapors, maybe an out-of-the-way corner might do for it. Poor man (Pegler). Maybe he should get out in the open spaces where he could hear the birds singing in the mornings and seem-ingly praising the Great Creator, or spend a while sleeping out nights under the desert sky, contemplating the beauty and wonder and glory of the starry heavens and forget the petty frailties of his fellow men.

One Man's Opinion

If, in the twinkling of an eye, the consciousness that is you became detached from the body you call yourself, what in this world would interest you? The answer is, probably, that nothing in this world would any longer hold any interest for you.

If you suddenly became a mere fleck of free intelligence in a vast, unexplored and unknown universe, would you not pine for the physical chains from which you had just been freed? I doubt it.

Would you hang around and try to bother the dull mortals who had been your friends, trying to communicate to them the wonders of your new estate? Would you try to converse with poor groundlings who could not possibly dream of the new dimensions you had found, who could not hope nor try to understand the new terms with which you must deal? I doubt it.

Could you, or would you, try to converse with poor groundlings who could not possibly dream of the new dimensions you had found, who could not hope nor try to understand the new terms with which you must deal? I doubt it.

vastness of the universe in which our earth is but an atom.

Forty million—or some such number of nebulae, universes within the universe, are counted or estimated by means of the puny tools we have made to supplement our earthworm senses.

Every nebulae a mammoth whirling universe, peopled by suns, most of which suns would make our sun look like a rusty pea in a basket of baseballs and footballs.

Just the visible, or bright, members of this overwhelming stellar horde are known to us and our feeble instruments of vision. The possible total of dull or invisible stars or planets in the heavenly gathering, on which physical life as we know it might exist, paralyzes our imaginative faculties.

Sometimes, wearied of my task of grinding my share of the world's daily grist, I shove my imagination high gear and let it soar. A journey of a few million light years out into space, into the future or into the past, is an exhilarating and pleasant jaunt.

But imagination must always come home to roost in the clay carcass that is its starting point. A fleck of free intelligence, traveling under its own power, would not need to come back to earth. And surely it would not.

And I can also remember away back when Glenn Martin was messing around with airplanes of the old trust in God type. Was out here on a vacation one time when he was testing out a plane at Balboa. Offered me a ride. I took the offer under advisement, and she told me not to go. Glenn's faith in his machine and himself was something that I couldn't appreciate then. I can now. He has gone far from the open seated "crate" to the palatial China Clipper and still I haven't had an airplane ride, but it's not my fault. I belong to a fraternal order which takes care of the faults of its brothers by writing them on the sands of time, and I have studiously avoided any situation which might give some one an opportunity to write mine with a comical setting.

When you start to worry about some child in the family who is sick, and you call the next morning to find out the sick one went to school, ain't it a grand and glorious feeling?

When I hear some fellow crabbing about working too long and too hard, I wonder if he is. I never worried about the number of hours when I was busy. My trouble came when they moved too slow, and that was always when I wasn't busy.

Used to look at the clock when the time dragged and said: "Gee, isn't it later than that?" And when I was busy remarked: "Gee, is it that late?" Which convinces me that you are happier when you are busier.

When such rugged characters as Sam Kraemer pass through the tapestries of life into the silhouette of mystic filigree in the world beyond, a query naturally arises as to the source from which we are to draw for the stalwart pioneers of the future.
